HARRISBURG, April 11, 1868.

SENATE.

The Senate met at ten o'clock, a. m.

Prayer by the Chaplain, Rev. E. L. Bailey.

Mr. COWLES, Chairman of the Committee of local bills, reported, as committed, House bill for Salt Inspectors in Pittsburgh and Allegheny cities.

Also, as, committed, House bill authorizing the authorities of Erwin borough, Westmoreland county to erect a lock-up house.

Mr. ERRETT, from the Committee on Railroads, with an amendment, supplement for the Pittsburgh and Minersville Passenger Railway Company. The amendment strikes out the 3d section, authorizing the sale by Sheriff.

The following House bills were called up and passed finally:

By Mr. BROWN, Rep., of Mercer, an act increasing the fees of Justices of the Peace, &c., in Potter and Mercer counties.

By Mr. WHITE, Rep., of Indiana, an act prohibiting liquor licenses in South Mahoning township, Indiana county.

By Mr. BROWNE, Rep., of Lawrence, (Senate bill) authorizing the bondholders of the Brady's Bend Iron Company to vote at a meeting of the stockholders of said company.

He asked that the joint rule prohibiting the transmission of Senate bills to the House within three days of final adjournment be suspended. Agreed to.

By Mr. CONNELL, Rep., of Philadelphia, House bill repealing so much of the act of March 27, 1865, relative to proceedings in partition, as requires monies arising from sales to be paid into Court, amended, by Mr. Connell, giving the Court discretionary powers.

By Mr. SEARIGHT, Dem., of Fayette, House bill repealing the landlord and tenant supplement of 1863.

By Mr. ERRETT, Rep., of Allegheny, House bill providing for the organization of co-operative associations in this Commonwealth, under which any seven citizens may organize a co-operative association with a capital of not more than $200,000.

Mr. WHITE, Rep., of Indiana, called up the House general militia supplement, which exempts persons on payment of fifty cents tax, except in case of insurrection or invasion, and all persons over fifty-five years of age—the militia tax to form brigade funds in each county, from which each private drilling in companies shall receive $12 annually, &c.

Mr. WHITE moved to amend by substituting a tax of one dollar and the age of forty-five for exemption. Adopted.

Mr. McCANDLESS, Dem., of Philadelphia, moved to exempt from the payment of fines all who have been honorably discharged from the service of the United States, having served therein at least three years, and all who have been discharged on certificates of disability. Adopted.

He also moved to make the bill applicable to Philadelphia, only so far as the remission of fines and exemptions embraced in his amendment was concerned. Agreed to.

Mr. WHITE also moved to amend, by providing that the Major General of the First Division (Philadelphia) shall have power to appoint one Assistant Adjutant General, with the rank of Lieutenant Colonel; one Commissary General, with the rank of Major; one Quarter Master General, with the rank of Major; all to be commissioned by the Governor.

Mr. McCANDLESS offered a substitute for the amendment, providing that the commanding officer of each Division in the Commonwealth shall have power to appoint one Assistant Adjutant General, one Quarter Master General, one Commissary General, one Surgeon General and one Paymaster General.

Mr. WHITE accepted the substitute, which was adopted.

Mr. WHITE moved to amend the first amendment of Mr. McCANDLESS by substituting nine months in lieu of three years.

Mr. FISHER, Republican, of Lancaster, supported the amendment, which was adopted.

The whole bill was then voted down, as having been rendered useless by the amendment.

Mr. LANDON, Republican, of Bradford, sent to the Clerk's desk and had read an article from the State Guard of this morning, reiterating the fact, denied by the Speaker of the House, that bills had been passed by their titles only, &c. He said he had no quarrel with anybody. But the State Guard was regarded as a Republican newspaper at the State Capitol. Its articles circulated all over the Commonwealth, and such articles as these did the Senate and the House great injustice. It was therefore proper to take some notice of them. He wished to say a few words, not a word too much, not a word too little, not a word unkindly. But that he might be guarded in expressions he had penciled down all he had to say in reference to the matter, which was this:

Mr. Speaker, we expect censure from our enemies, but undeserved criticism from friends is especially unkind. A failure to repel charges, when made, must always be construed into guilt or cowardice. The statements of the Guard are unjust to itself, for no public organ can afford, without due cause, to forfeit the confidence of discreet thinking men, saying nothing of political allies. The statements are unjust to the Senate, for you, sir, know well, and every man in this Chamber knows well, the labor and pains-taking employed to perfect our legislative enactments. The statements are unjust to the public, for they spread abroad a false and prejudicial impression, leaving the people to suppose that we rush through and consummate legal enactments without first studying their contents or comprehending their purpose. We do pass finally a certain class of local bills by reading only their titles. But what are the antecedent processes to which those bills are subjected? First, the bills are read in place by Senators who desire their passage. Second, they are committed to the appropriate standing committees, who examine, amend, approve or disapprove them, and report them back to the Senate accordingly. To guard the whole subject still more closely, by special resolution of the Senate, when those bills are put upon the calendar for final action, every bill must have associated with it the name of some Senator, who is thus made responsible for its character and contents. Third, Those, and all bills, with few exceptions, are printed, bound in files, and placed upon our desks and can be read by all parties and at all times from the beginning to the close of the session.

Thus read, examined, printed, reported and guarded, where is the good reason for complaint if they pass finally by their titles. If public journals upbraid us for the acts we pass, they should predecate their complaints upon one or two facts, viz: Either that the acts are wrong, or are not desired by our constituents. It is a well known fact that all those local acts are solicited by those whom we represent, and the bills being such as the people desire and demand, editors should not fall into paroxysms of displeasure over the manner of their passage.

Mr. Speaker! Grumbling is a poor trade. Growlers never become great reformers, but generally die prematurely, smitten by a fatal attack of public neglect.

Mr. CONNELL, Rep., of Philadelphia, moved to reconsider the passage of House supplement relative to liens of mechanics and others upon buildings in Philadelphia. Agreed to, and the bill was laid over.

Mr. WORTHINGTON, Rep., of Chester, moved to reconsider the vote defeating the House militia bill. Agreed to.

Mr. WHITE moved to strike out all exemptions except by payment of tax and by age.

Pending discussion, adjourned.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

The House met at two o'clock, P. M. Prayer by the Chaplain, Rev. C. H. Forney, of Harrisburg.

The following Senate bills on the private calendar of last Tuesday were acted upon:

Authorizing the appointment of three additional Notaries Public for the county of Allegheny. Passed finally.

Repealing an act, entitled "an act to repeal an act relative to the purchase of a law library in the county of Butler," approved April 8th, 1867. Passed finally.

Confirmatory of the organization of the Terbe Valley Railroad Company, and authorizing said Company to borrow money, and empowering any railroad company, having a railroad connecting with that of the Terbe Valley Railroad Company, to purchase the stock and bonds of said Company, and to guarantee its bonds, and to contract for the use or lease of its road. Passed finally.

Legalizing an ordinance of the Burgess and Town Council of West Middlesex, Mercer county, relative to the construction of a certain railroad through said borough. Passed finally.

Supplement to an act incorporating the Beaver County Bank and Safe Deposit Association, changing the name of said Association, and authorizing a change in location and increase in the capital stock. Passed finally.

Prohibiting the sale of intoxicating drinks in the township of Finley, Allegheny. Passed second reading.

Mr. JONES, Dem., of Berks, opposed the bill, and two-thirds could not be obtained to suspend the rule to pass the bill finally on the same day.

Authorizing the trustees of the First Congregational Church of Ebensburg, Cambria county, to sell certain real estate. Passed finally.

Incorporating the Indiana Gas Company. Passed finally.

Mr. THORN, Rep., of Philadelphia, moved to reconsider the action of the House yesterday, in refusing to adopt the report of the Committee of Conference accepting Senate amendments to an act for the appointment of Gas Inspector in Philadelphia. (The Senate amendments include Allegheny county.)

Mr. BULL, Dem., of Philadelphia, opposed the motion. The bill would entail an unnecessary expenditure by the State.

Mr. FORD, Rep., of Allegheny, was in favor of the motion, which was agreed to—yeas 41, nays 29.

Mr. BULL said he had introduced a bill himself, which he thought was satisfactory to the people. But this bill had been emasculated in the Senate. It was now a bill merely creating offices and places for favorites. Each of these Chief Inspectors had unlimited power to appoint deputies—the one Inspector in Allegheny, the other in Philadelphia.

Mr. THORN denied that the bill would put the State to any expenditure. The gas trusts paid everything.

Mr. BULL asserted that the State paid the salaries under this bill.

The question was then postponed till Monday afternoon.

The House then resumed the consideration of Senate bills.

Providing for the payment of the damages awarded the Allegheny County Agricultural Society by reason of the occupation of their lands by the Commonwealth, under act of May 15th, 1861, to create a loan, &c.

Mr. DAY, Republican, of Washington, moved to postpone the bill indefinitely. Agreed to.

Mr. CHALFANT, Democrat, of Montour, called up the Senate bill for a new State insane asylum for Northern Pennsylvania.

Mr. MANN, Rep., of Potter, said this was a bill offered and passed in the interest of a few physicians, (Drs. Reed, of Allegheny, Curwen, of Harrisburg, and Green, of Northampton.) The bill had never been petitioned for by the people of Northern Pennsylvania. By this bill a tax of $30,000 or $40,000 would be imposed upon the districts. He believed this bill had been "engineered" to its present stage by parties not at all affected by the bill. Its progress thus far had been inscrutable to him. The House amendment making Drs. Reed, Curwen and Green, Commissioners to select a site, had been inserted in the Judiciary Committee by one member of that Committee, who was not in any way affected by the bill, (meaning Hon. John Hickman, of Chester, Chairman of the said Committee, who had asked leave of absence for the balance of the session and was now absent.) Mr. Mann moved to amend by striking out the names of Doctors Reed, of Pittsburgh, Curwen, of Harrisburg, and Green, of Northampton. The two former physicians had charge of asylums of their own and should attend to their management. He did not want another Dixmont Hospital in this State; a hospital that had cost the State four times more than it ought to have cost. He repeated his ascertion and said he could prove it.

Messrs. BURRETT, of Susquehanna, and LAWSHE, of Lycoming, ssserted they had presented petitions for the bill.

Mr. McCULLOUGH, Dem., of Clearfield, said he had received petitions signed by over one thousand citizens of the district.

Mr. WILSON, Rep., of Allegheny, opposed the amendment.

Mr. MANN'S amendment was lost—yeas 23, nays 56.

Mr. WILSON then defended Dixmont.

The bill passed finally.

HARRISBURG, April 12, 1868.

NIGHT SESSION.

The House held session last night till 12 o'clock. The following Senate bills were passed, in addition to those during the afternoon session.

The road had taken a lot of flour to ship South, but connecting roads being threatened by the Federal army, they refused to take it and it was put off at Bristol, kept a long time, and finally sold by the Company. AUGUSTA, GA., April 11.—The attention of General Meade having been called to the course pursued by Lieutenant Charles Johnson, 15th Infantry, in arresting Judge Hope, of the Circuit Court of Calhoun county, Alabama, and closing the Court, owing to a difference in the construction of orders in reference to impannelling juries, the General commanding publicly declares his assumption of authority to arrest as deserving of severe censure. General Meade further says: The object of the orders was not to declare all juries must be in part composed of colored men, but simply to remove any distinction the laws of the State made in this District regarding color. The General trusts this disapproval will render subordinate officers cautious to refrain from hasty and unauthorized exercise of power vested only in the highest military officer.

AUGUSTA, GA., April 11.—In order that there may be fairness in the approaching election, Gen. Meade directs that the ballot-boxes shall not be opened, or votes counted, or any information of the progress of the election given, until the polls are closed. After the voting is closed the managers shall select two men of character from opposite parties, who shall be permitted to be present at the counting of the ballots, and to witness and verify such counting.

FORTIETH CONGRESS.

The Impeachment Trial—Continuation of General Thomas' Testimony—General Sherman on the Stand—Discussion on Admissibility of Conversations With the President—Objections by the Managers Sustained.

[By Telegraph to Pittsburgh Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, April 11, 1868.

SENATE.

A motion of the Impeachment Managers, that the Court allow as many of the Managers as Counsel to take part in the final arguments, was rejected and lays over till Monday.

General Thomas' examination was continued. He explained that the President instructed him to "take charge" not to "take possession" of the War Office. He assented to the general correctness of Mr. Burleigh's testimony before the House Committee. Cross-examined by Mr. BUTLER—Was positive the President only told him to take charge of the War Office. Admitted calling Karseners a "liar." Never said "we will have that fellow out, if it sinks the ship." Had not talked with Gen. Townsend and others about his testimony, given yesterday. He corrected certain portions of his testimony given before the Congressional Committee.

Gen. W. T. Sherman was called. He testified he arrived in Washington on the 4th of December last, and remained a month, coming here on business connected with the Indian Commission. About the middle of December was assigned to duty on the board to revise army articles. Had several interviews with the President regarding difficulties before and after Stanton's removal.

Mr. STANBERY asked: What conversation took place between you and the President on the 14th of January in regard to Stanton's removal?

The Managers objected.

The CHIEF JUSTICE ruled the question was admissable, and a decision by the Senate was called for, but before the yeas and nays were taken

Mr. STANBERY said he regarded the testimony sought to be introduced as vital to the case. He went on to remind the Court that the Managers had introduced much testimony in an effort to raise a presumption of criminal intent on the part of the President, testimony relating to events which occurred months before the 21st of February, and argued that the counsel had an equal right to bring forward rebutting testimony in order to prove the President's honest intent. In support of his position he quoted at length from reports of the State trials of Hardy and Lord Gordon, and claimed the decisions then made were precedents to determine present questions.

Mr. BUTLER rejoined, saying the Managers in attempting to introduce Mr. Cooper's testimony sought to prove acts, not conversations. In the course of his remarks he referred to General Thomas as a weak, vascillating old man, pampered by a little pride, and fit to be a tool. He said counsel had tried to influence the Senate by reading simple arguments of lawyers, alarming authority, and this attempt he characterized as unprofessional.

Mr. STANBERY called on the Chief Justice to put a stop to such assertions of his conduct, stating he read the arguments as explaining the decisions made.

Mr. BUTLER resumed and spoke at at length with more usual than vehemence, arguing that the rules of evidence reflected on Mr. Stanbery and General Thomas, and claiming in conclusion that Senators were a law unto themselves.

Mr. EVARTS quoted from the records of this trial to show that Mr. Butler had assumed the same position and done the same things that he now denounced as unprofessional. He cited and commented on numerous charges made in the articles which imported evil intention to the President, and argued the admissability of the question on considerations of law, reason and justice. When he finished the Senate took recess for fifteen minutes.

On re-assembling Mr. WILSON read from the report of Hardy that the position taken by Mr. Butler was correct, and insisted that the declarations of the President might have been made solely with the purpose of concealing his intents. His effort of putting Stanton out of office would have been to prevent him from applying to the courts, so a decision would not have been reached.

The CHIEF JUSTICE re-stated his opinion that the question was admissable under ruling of yesterday, because, like that asked yesterday, its purpose was to elicit testimony regarding the intent of the President. A conversation occurring shortly before the commission of an act was as admissable as that concerning which took place afterwards, even more so.

The yeas and nays were then taken and resulted twenty-three to twenty-eight. So the question was not allowed.

Mr. STANBERY asked Gen. Sherman: What do you know about the creating of the Department of the Atlantics.

Mr. BUTLER said there would be no objection, providing the Chief-Justice would instruct the witness not to give hearsay evidence.

Mr. STANBERY declined to give assurance that the witness could not be questioned about what the President had said.

The CHIEF-JUSTICE submitted the question of the admissibility, and the Senate, without division, decided in the negative.

Mr. STANBERY then asked if the President had tendered him the position of Secretary of War ad interim?

Mr. BUTLER objected.

Mr. STANBERY replied, and Mr. BUTLER rejoined that it was an attempt to bring in the conversation.

The Senate decided the question could be put, and General Sherman testified the President tendered him the office of Secretary of War ad interim on two occasions, January 25th and 30th. He replied to these in writing on the 27th and 31st, that Mr. Stanton was in office in that office.

Mr. STANBERY asked if anything else occurred between the witness and the President about the offer when first made?

Mr. BUTLER objected and warned the Senate against the attempt to bring in conversation under the pretense of proving an act.

Mr. EVARTS called attention to Mr. Butler shaking his finger in warning the Senate as malpractice of counsel, and said nothing was plainer than that the circumstances explaining an act were admissable as evidence concerning it.

Mr. BUTLER replied, and the question was submitted to the Senate.

The yeas and nays were demanded and resulted, twenty-three to twenty-nine.

So the question was decided inadmissable.

The examination was resumed—At the second interview, when the offer was reviewed, there was further conversation.

Mr. STANBERY then asked if the President had in any interview stated that his intention in offering witness the appointment was to bring the matter before the Supreme Court?

Objected to.

Counsel said they only wished the ruling to appear on record.

The question of admissability was submitted and decided in the negative by a vote of seven to forty.

Mr. STANBERY then offered the question, modified as follows: Was anything said in conversation as to any purpose of bringing the matter before the Court?

Mr. BUTLER objected to it as being outrageously leading, and said it was designed to gain time.

Mr. STANBERY remarked that this was too grave and solemn a proceeding to allow of low personalities. He repelled with scorn the insinuation that he had resorted to the tactics of the old Bailey practictioner with regard to leading questions. The questions which he (Mr. Stanbery) had put were not, as the Managers admitted, intended to elicit anything the witness was not about to say without their leading form.

Mr. HENDERSON offered a question, whether in any interview the President had expressed any intention with regard to making the appointments.

Objection made and yeas and nays taken. Not admitted—25 to 27.

The Senate refused to adjourn—25 to 27.

Mr. STANBERY asked the question: At either interview was anything said in reference to the use of force, intimidation or threats to get possession of the War Department, or to the contrary?

Objection made and sustained without division.

The Senate again refused to adjourn—20 to 32.

Mr. STANBERY said under these rulings the counsel were not prepared at present to ask further questions of Gen. Sherman, but perhaps might desire to re-call him on Monday, whereupon, at 4:40, the Court adjourned.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

Mr. WOODWARD introduced a bill to test the constitutionality question of acts of Congress. Referred to the Judiciary Committee.

The first section provides that any act of Congress that shall be vetoed by the President on the ground of the unconstitutionality of its provisions, and shall afterwards be enacted into a law over his veto, it shall be lawful for the President to order the Attorney-General to file in the Supreme Court a feigned issue to test the constitutionality of such parts of the enactment as were specially objected to by him.

The SPEAKER presented a letter from the Justices of the Supreme Court, transmitting amendments of rules in bankruptcy. Referred to Committee on Revision of United States laws.

Mr. COBURN introduced a bill to provide for the payment of back pensions in cases where persons entitled had been infants or insane, or without guardians, during the time they were without guardians. Referred to Committee on Pensions.

The House resolved into Committee of the Whole and proceeded to the Senate, no business to be done on return.

He says he has no intention of disobeying the canons of his Church, has not disobeyed the Church laws since his late trial, and has not received any notification of arraignment for such alleged offence, has never joined any plan to defy the authority of the Church, will never attend another trial, and finally, he will continue to preach from his pulpit until ejected therefrom by the police.

FROM EUROPE.

The steamship City of Paris, from Liverpool, April 1st, and Queenstown 2d, has arrived.

MEXICAN NEWS.

HAVANA, April 11.—The Spanish steamer Palos, from Vera Cruz, on the 4th, has arrived. A railway was projected from Presido del Norte, Texas, to the Pacific. Fears were entertained at the capital of an invasion of Sonora, Lower California, and Sinoloa, by Americans. The election in Yucatan was suspended. Eligio Ancana has been made Governor of Merida, in place of Crepida Nemamdu of Blatorres. Troops were expected to sail for Vera Cruz about the end of April. The anarchy in Yucatan was quieted.

NEW YORK, April 12—The Herald's special, dated Guayamas, March 28th, via San Francisco, April 11, says serious difficulties exist there between the citizens and troops. General Dowalas, lately arrived from Mazatlan, feared the affair would lead to bloodshed. Mazatlan merchants had been unsuccessful in their interview with Governor Pesquira and the Collector of Customs, in making arrangements for discharging, at reduced duties, their ships lying off Mazatlan harbor. It is not believed the parties would be able to come to an understanding. A new line of stages between that city and Tuscan would commence running on April 15th.

A special from Lapaz, Lower California, March 30th via San Francisco 11th, says: Lower California was affected with chronic rebellion. Some country deputies were dissatisfied with the action of Goveruor Gallan and call for a new election. The territorial legislature was soon to meet to decide what measures were to be taken.

Currency and Revenue—Appropriations Exhausted—Statistics of Imports and Exports—Renewal of Indian Troubles.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, April 11, 1868.

FINANCIAL.

The fractional currency issued for the week was $408,000; amount shipped, $312,580; notes shipped, $597,335, including $500,000 to the Assistant Treasurer at St. Louis, and $50,000 to the United States Depository at Chicago. National bank notes issued, $75,690; fractional currency destroyed, $337,000. Receipts of internal revenue for the week, $2,705,843.

APPROPRIATIONS EXHAUSTED.

The appropriation for defraying the expenses of collecting revenue from customs is exhausted, and the Secretary will be unable to pay the salaries of collectors and their employes until the appropriation is replenished by Congress. The funds for continuing the Treasury extension are also exhausted.

INDIAN TROUBLES.

Well informed parties from the Indian country, who are now in Washington engaged in transacting business for the interest of the various tribes on the extreme northeast, express their apprehension of a renewal of the Indian troubles before the summer months. In several localities from which reports have from time to time been received, the dissatisfaction among some tribes manifested is owing in a great measure to the delay in fulfilling stipulations, and also on account of outrages committed by whites. The Commissioner of Indian Affairs has repeatedly urged Congress for appropriations of money to make good the promises and negotiations of the Peace Commissioners, but legislative action has been delayed by the impeachment trial.

IMPORTS AND EXPORTS.

The Director of the Bureau of Statistics, who has just issued his monthly report, furnishes the following statistics of imports and exports, including the Pacific ports: Imports for the year ending December 31st, 1867, $381,115,192, of which $10,864,318 were gold and silver; during the month of January, 1868, $22,012,326, of which $762,237 were gold and silver; during the month of February, $27,965,091, of which $641,843 were gold and silver; foreign exports for the year ending December 31st, 1867, $23,594,905, of which $800,506 were gold and silver; during the month of January, 1868, $1,779,735, of which $849,447 were gold and silver; during the month of February, $1,091,349, of which $425,000 were gold and silver; domestic exports for the year ending December 31st, 1867, gold and silver, $7,459,092. THE CANADA ASSASSINATION.

Result of the Investigation not Made Public—An Important Development.

OTTAWA, April 11—The Crown prosecutor was engaged all day yesterday in the examination of the circumstances connected with the assassination of McGee, but he declines to divulge any of the facts ascertained for publication. The whole attention of the Government is directed to the prosecution of this investigation. It is stated the Government is in possession of evidence which very nearly completes the testimony against Whelan. The police have discovered new facts regarding the murder, but they are enjoined to secrecy. The excitement is intense, but the public feel confident the authorities will succeed in bringing the murderer to justice.

OTTAWA, April 11.—The detectives who are taking evidence against the prisoner, Whelan, have found a house nearly opposite Mrs. Trotter's, where McGee boarded, which has for some time been vacant and the doors been left unfastened. On the back door steps of this house tracks are visible. They are those of a man who passed inwards and outwards once. Whelan's boots fit the tracks in the snow exactly. This discovery accounts for the sudden disappearance of the murderer, who evidently passed through the house to Wellington street, a short distance from the Russell House, where Whelan was seen shortly after the murder. When asked for his boots this morning he said "these are not the boots I wore the night of the murder."

THE MITITARY CHANGES—EFFECT UPON THE PEOPLE.

PARIS, April 12.—The Moniteur to-day publishes an official report made to the Emperor by Minister Pinardin, in which an account is given of the military changes which have been made since the bill for the re-organization of the army has gone into operation, and the effect they have had on the country. The Minister states all the reforms introduced in the Gard Mobile in accordance with the provisions of that bill are now completed, and he asserts these changes have been received with popular applause almost everywhere throughout the Empire. He contradicts the reports of dissatisfaction and declares that the new army law is sustained and defended by the patriotism of the French people, who thus give a new proof of their confidence in the Emperor.

Fatal Affray Between Gamblers—A Negro Hanged by a Mob.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

NASHVILLE, April 12.—Last night in an affray on Cedar street Henry Gangheran was shot and killed by Jack Cunningham. Gangheran was the aggressor, having fired the first shot, wounding Cunningham in the left shoulder. Cunningham is from Michigan and Gangheran was a New Yorker, both being gamblers.

Henry Fitzpatrick, a negro, was hanged a few nights ago in Maury county by a mob of persons disguised. He was charged with burning the barn of James Booker near Columbia.

FROM THE PERSIAN OF HAFIZ.

Two ears and but a single tongue,
By Nature's laws to man belong:
The lesson she would teach is clear,
"Repeat but half of what you hear."

And sonnets writes to Julia's eyes;
She likes a verse—but, cruel whim,
She still appears a-verse to him.

—The Pall Mall Gazette tries to get off what it evidently considers an excellent joke on O. W. Holmes, by calling him the "autocrat of the dissecting table."

—St. Albans, Vermont, furnished three millions of pounds of butter last year. It claims, and with some show of justice, to be the butter metropolis of America.

—Thirteen houses were burned on Saturday a week ago in the little town of Franklin, Tenn. One negro perished in the flames. The property destroyed was valued at $50,000.

—Lucy Stone is once more on the war trail. She is said to quite equal Anna Dickenson as a scold. A match for the championship between the two would be a good thing.

—Yesterday week, in South Nashville, a man named Lombertine, stabbed another, named Gotlieb, to the heart. Both of the men were intoxicated. The murderer escaped.

—Miss Fanny Hawkins, a maiden of only twenty-two years, was burned to death in her father's house in Anne Arundel county, Maryland, on the 6th inst. The rest of the family escaped.

—The heavy frosts in Alabama have injured vegetation. It is wonderful how, although every year the farmers complain of all the crops being injured, there is nevertheless generally a copious supply in the markets when the time comes, the only effect of the spring ruin being to double the prices.

—Gen Grant does not like the conduct of certain editors who announce that he is in favor of impeachment. He says that he supposes it is right to hold an opinion on impeachment, but so long as he keeps it to himself or his family circle he does not think the newspapers have any business to publish it to affect the President one way or the other.

—A Boston paper, remarking the fact that seven railroads terminate in Louisville, says that "their builders stopped in disgust when they got there." When we studied geography at school we remember that Boston used to be mentioned as the terminus of more railways than any other town in the Union. The Boston man's inference is applicable there also.

—The New York Express asks the following question in mental arithmetic: "If we fired 100 guns over a loss of 800 votes in New Hampshire, how many shall we fire over a like result in Connecticut? We would amend it thus: If the Democrats put up eight roosters because of a Republican majority in the Connecticut Legislature, how many must be put up because a Republican Governor was re-elected in Rhode Island?"

—Immediately before the war northern men were liable to meet with death, or at the very least, a coat of tar and feathers, if they ventured into the Southern States. Immediately after the war the southern people were cowed, and a northern man was safe in their midst; aid and comfort has since then been furnished them from the White House, and now their outrages are even more high-handed than ever. Two teachers of Maury county, Tenn., have been treated in the most brutal manner and banished, by a crowd of men, including the magistrate and constable, who loudly declared that the Ku-Klux managed matters there. It is the duty of Gov. Brownlow to spare neither men nor money in the immediate punishment of these rebels, and if he is not able to quell them, then Congress should come to his aid. If necessary the whole army should be ordered to these rebellious districts, and used in such a way that any man who has a right to the protection of the government, shall be able to live in peace in any part of the nation which suits him.

Marriages in New York.

The number of marriages in this city during the year ending October 1, 1867, was 7,519. The marriage rate, estimated upon the census of 1865, was therefore 20.68 in 1,000 inhabitants. or one marriage to every 96.68 of the population. The marriages that were registered in Brooklyn in the same period number 1,349, giving a marriage rate of 9.11 in 1,000 inhabitants, or one marriage to every 219.5 of the population. It is probable that the marriage rate is higher in the latter than in the former city, so that the defects of registration, and consequently the neglect of the provisions of the law on the part of those who perform nuptial ceremonies, are shown to be glaring.

Of the 15,026 persons married in New York last year, 70 males and 1,262 females were under 20 years of age; 2,093 males and 3,207 females were between 20 and 25; 2,568 males and 1,615 females between 25 and 30; 1,282 males and 656 females between 30 and 35; 641 males and 335 females between 35 and 40; 333 males and 164 females between 40 and 45; 188 males and 59 females between 45 and 50; 100 males and 28 females between 50 and 55; 46 males and 7 females between 55 and 60; 42 males and 4 females of 60 years of age and upwards, while 151 males and 179 females either did not know or would not tell their ages. The proportion of foreign over those of native birth who married during the year was considerable, as will be seen from the following figures: Foreign, males, 5,346; females, 4,978; native, males, 1,974; females, 2,341; nativity not stated, males, 193; females, 194. Of those who married for the first time, 5,698 were males, and 5,717 females, while the remainder, 1,455 males and 1,436 females, had been previously married. Three of the brides were over 70 years of age, while one groom, having outlived two wives, remarried at the age of 81. The average age of the men who married was 31.3 years, the average age of the women was 23.6 years.—New York Evening Post.

J. B. HARRIS' SAFETY FIRE JACKET,

For SMOKE AND HOT AIR FLUES, dispensing with the use of Stoves and Fires in or about the Passenger or Baggage Cars, with the attachment to graduate the heat to any temperature that may be desired without the possibility of firing the car or cars to which the Jacket may be attached.
Having obtained of the United States Letters Patent for a Safety Jacket which is warranted to resist the most intense heat that may be adplied to it in the position and purpose for which it is intended. It is a sure protection from accidents by fire, originating from defective flues, or where iron pipes are used as conductors for smoke or heat. It is applicable to all piping that may become overheated, and is warranted to give perfect satisfaction where wood or other combustible material may be placed in close proximity thereto. I am now ready to apply my invention to stores, dwellings, facteries, ships, steamboats, railroad cars, &c., wherever pipes as conductors are made dangerous by being overheated and security desired. I will sell, on application, rights to manufacture or to use the above invention; also, territorial rights, to such as may wish to engage in selling privileges, either by State or county.

RIVER NEWS.

Both rivers were about stationary last evening, with seven feet ten inches in the Monongahela and eight feet in the Allegheny. Snow fell all forenoon yesterday, and in the afternoon the trees were completely covered, and there must have been at least three inches on the ground. When the snow goes off, and it will not lay long, we may look for another freshet—probably the biggest one we have yet had this spring.

The Echo had not arrived from Oil City up to two o'clock last evening, but she will douptless be found in port this morning.

The towboats J. S. Neal, Lion and Star cleared for Cincinanati and Louisville on Saturday with tows of coal, and others will, no doubt, follow to-day if the water does not get down too low.

The J. N. McCullough, Capt. Geo. W. Moore, is the regular Parkersburg packet to-day, leaving promptly at noon, and passengers and shippers should bear this in mind.

The St. Charles did not get off until about nine o'clock on Friday night, having been delayed until that time in getting in her freight. It is said that she got in all near two hundred tons, including one item of 150 barrels of ale for Portsmouth.

The Importer, Capt. John A. Williams, is now in turn for St. Louis and Fort Benton, and will be the first boat out, leaving to-morrow evening. The Importer is just off the dock, and is, therefore, in excellent condition for business. She will be followed by the Silver Lake, Captain Todd. Both of these boats are connected with the "Rees Line."

The R. C. Grey, Capt. Anderson, will be the first boat out for Cincinnati and Louisville. The Grey will receipt freight through to Memphis and New Orleans, with the privilege of reshipping.

The following named boats were in port on Saturday afternoon: Argosy, Camelia, Kate Robinson, Glasgow, Importer, Maggie Hays, Ida Rees No. 1, Leonidas, Delaware, Grey Eagle and Bayard.

The Emma and Glasgow cleared for St. Louis on Saturday with good trips. The great proportion of the Glasgow's freight was for the Upper Mississippi, and she will, no doubt, go clear through to St. Paul.

The Kate Robinson left for Cincinnati and Louisville with her guards dragging in the water. The Grey Eagre arrived from Parkersburg a little behind time, and cleared again.

The Ida Rees No. 2 cleared for Oil City with a very good trip, and the Echo No. 2 is the regular Tueseay packet.

The Silver Cloud arrived at Davenport on the 6th. The folks were glad to see this through boat from Pittsburgh.

It is stated by St. Paul papers that the Norahwestern Packet Company intend running the S heridan, Itasca, and several others, between St. Louis and St. Paul, in opposition to the Northern Line. Let them come. The more the merrier.

Among the passengers brought down by the Mittie Stevens, says a New Orleans exchange, where some fifty Indian ball players from the Nation, on a starring tour for the west, in a few Olympic games, after the manner of the noble savage.

While the steamer starlight was lying at New Orleans last Friday, some hay took fire in her hold, but was extinguished without any material damage to the boat.

St. Joseph has been startled by the arrival of a fleet of small boats containing a large number of geutlemen without hats, from the Upper Missouri.

A telegram from Captain W. H. Keyte, reports the total loss on the 4th of this month of the steamer Florence Traber, she having sunk at Collier's Landing, Arkansas river. The boat was insured in Cincinnati for $10,000—$2,000 each in the following offices: Enterprise, Union, American, Central Ohio Valley.

The Cincinnati Commercial says: Capt. Sweeney contemplates putting the St. Marys in the Pittsburgh and Cincinnati trade, in connection with the St. Charles. The matter will be definitely decided on her arrival at Wheeling and Pittsburgh.

We clip the following from a late Louisville exchange: The steamer Louisville arrived from New Orleans early yesterday and made several desperate efforts to ascend the falls. She could not make the turn or stem the current, and had to fall back to Portland.

The St. Mary's, that had been laid up at New Albany, came over to the Portland wharf yesterday. She evidently expects to ascend the falls on the first rise.

The New State came in from Pittsburgh early yesterday with a fine load of iron, glass and manufactured articles generally, and has 1,006 bags of wheat engaged for her return trip to Pittsburgh. The grain is being shipped by Brandeis & Crawford.

The Armenia, from Pittsburgh, and the Emperor, from Cincinnati, passed down yesterday for St. Louis.

The New Albany Ledger says: Some weeks ago a corpse was brought to this city on the steamer Dexter by a lady who was on her way East to bury it, it having been disintered at New Orleans, and placed on the boat as that of her husband. Upon the arrival of the boat here it was discovered that the wrong corpse had been sent up, and it was left in charge of Messrs. Beamer & Co. until it could be ascertained what disposal should be made of it. By telegraph to New Orleans, and through Capt. Montgomery and Mr. Smith, of the Dexter it has been ascertained that the corpse brought here was that of Capt. Charles F. Reynolds, a well known clerk and commander on the river. When this fact was made known Capt. Reamer determined that he would see to its proper purial. He has written to Frankfort, Ky., where Capt. Reynolds once resided, but all his efforts to find any relatives of the deceased in this vicinity have failed. He has determined, however, to purchase a lot in the cemetery here anc have the remains properly interred. Several steamboatmen in this city and Louisville have informed Capt. Reymer that they will assist him with the necessary funds. This is perfectly proper, as it would be asking too much for him to incur the enpense alone. Capt. Reynolds died in New Orleans about a year ago from yellow fever, if we remember aright.

The Great Republic left Memphis Sunday night for New Orleans, having added 1272 bales cotton. Total cargo said to be 2400 tons. One item of her cargo was 6000 barrels of flour. Mr. R. M. Mackey, cashier of the Allegheny National Bank of Pittsburgh, was a passenger on the Great Republic, prospecting in the South and seeking good investments.

The Lorena left Cincinnati for Pittsburgh on Friday, with two barges deeply laden. Pilots—Messrs. Williamson and Stewart.

The Evansville Journal, of Thursday, says: The Quicksted made the round trip from Evansville to Cairo and return, on $68 worth of fuel. She made the return from Cairo here in 28 hours, making 42 landings. Her time from Shawneetown, 70 miles, making nine landings, was six hours. Capt. Dexter challenges any other three boiler boat in the world to boat this for economy or speed. She came up sharp after the Sam Orr, but the Samuel is hard to catch on a stern chase.

The second clerk of the Pine Grove, Robert Seymour, who disappeared from Nashville mysteriously about two months since, has turned up in St. Louis.

A St. Louis telegram, under date of Friday, says: The Illinois River packets bring daily consignments for reshipment by the river and ocean to Boston, New York, &c. A consignment of this kind from Chicago was received here yesterday and transferred to the New Orleans Barge Line. The trees and fences in the suburbs are loaded with icicles this morning, presenting a rich spectacle in the fitful gleams of the sun, but looking bad for fruit. There is seven feet of water in the Illinois and steadily falling. The Beardstown and Illinois brought from that stream yesterday full cargo.

GOLD closed in New York on Saturday evening at 138¼@138⅜.

THE THREE-PER CENT Certificates are now held by the Treasury authorities to be redeemable in greenbacks. This has not been officially declared until within the past three days.

THE OFFICERS at Carlisle Barracks having disregarded the army regulations so far as to permit some of the private soldiers to hold a political meeting a few days ago, Gen. Grier, commanding that post, has been ordered to duty with his regiment in Missouri and Kansas. Indian skirmishes will be more in the line of his profession than the politics of impeachment.

THE foreign immigration of 1868 promises to be of extraordinary magnitude. Germany is pouring out thousands of her skilled mechanics and hardy laborers through the ports of the Confederation, while every harbor of Ireland to which American shipping resorts is crowded with the rush of emigrants, which fully equals the great exodus of 1866. From England. the Baltic States, Belgium, France and Italy, the movement is equally active.

THE NEW Constitution of North Carolina confers the right of suffrage upon thousands of "poor whites" whom the aristocratic rule of former days disfranchised under the property qualification. These very "mean whites" are expected to follow the ungrateful example of a man who sprung from their class, and who in a few days will be remitted by the exhausted patience of the people to the obscurity from which he should never have emerged; they will take the first chance to turn against their benefactors by voting the Democratic ticket.

TO VOTE early and vote often, has been understood to be a cardinal maxim of the Democratic electioneering policy. The majority which this party has in the New Jersey Legislature evidently intend to heed the injunction, as they have repealed the Registry Law, and also the "Sunset" law, which required the polls to be closed at sunset. Having thus abolished all the existing restrictions by which wise provision had been made for the purity of the suffrage, they propose to ensure their State for the Democratic ticket by voting early and late, and as often as need be to count out a majority.

THE LATTER PART of last week witnessed the gathering at Harrisburg of ex-Senator COWAN, Generals STEEDMAN, EGAN and GRANGER, CORNELIUS WENDELL, and with them came Mr. LEW. CAMPBELL, late of the Rio Grande. Speculations were rife as to the object which brought these persons to our State Capital, by a curious coincidence, at the same time. Time was, when these gentlemen were regarded as dangerous politicians, but, as each and all of them are today without a particle of official or individual influence upon public affairs, the conclusion was that whatever intrigue or petty plot, if any, they might be endeavoring to hatch by the combined incubation, could never be distinguished for aught but its impotent audacity.

THE Republicans of Wisconsin have elected their Judicial ticket by a majority exceeding 7,000, being a gain of about 3,000 from last autumn and against a violent opposition to which various factions and cliques inside of our own party lent their aid. In that State, as in Michigan, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and Minnesota, the local elections of the spring show the Republican party to be as strong as in its palmiest days since 1864. All the "reaction" we can anywhere discover is in Connecticut, where, upon a largely increased poll, and altho' aided by wholesale naturalizations and direct frauds, the Democracy find the majority in the Legislature nearly doubled against them, and have only succeeded in gaining about six hundred in the majority for a Gubernatorial candidate whom they hung in effigy, during the war, as being altogether too loyal in his patriotism.

WE REGRET to find our exchanges from nearly all quarters of the country concurring in the opinion that the fruit crops of the year along this parallel of latitude will amount to little or nothing. With the exception of reports somewhat more favorable from the low-lying belt of country adjoining and upon the tide waters in New Jersey, Delaware and Maryland, the opinion is everywhere a decided one that peaches, cherries, pears, &c., including even the strawberries, are almost, if not quite, cut off. Even for apples we must look to the higher latitudes, in which the later season keeps back the swelling of the buds. Fruit prospects which have been gloomy in the spring have frequently been followed by a yield far more abundant than was anticipated, but we see but little reason to hope for such a result this year. Our Missouri, Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, and Kentucky exchanges, with those of our own and other Middle States, express but one opinion, and that a clear and decided one, as to the fatal consequences upon the fruit of the unusually severe weather which has uniformly prevailed from the middle of March to this date. It is not only the unseasonable cold which has done the mischief, but the low temperature has been so frequently preceded by wet, clinging snows, which, surrounding the buds, have been frozen with them into a solid mass.

THE GREAT TRIAL.

Technically, the Managers closed their case early last week, and Mr. JOHNSON'S counsel have engaged the attention of the Senate since Thursday. But this, it seems, was only a stroke of policy on the part of the Managers, the result of which has reflected the highest credit upon their professional skill and has displayed more conspicuously than ever the strength of their case. Affecting to yield the floor to the defense, they have submitted with the best grace possible to the infliction of Judge CURTIS' five hour speech, preliminary to the introduction of testimony for the President. This, under a searching cross-examination, goes directly and powerfully to support the articles. Judge CURTIS' argument did not make a solitary Senator more doubtful as to his duty. Forty of the Senators are convinced that the President removed Secretary STANTON, because he was determined to resist the law; no argument can shake this conclusion and no testimony seems likely to show it to be unfounded. Certainly, there is no likelihood of this when the conspiracy to resist the law is proved by one of the conspirators, Gen. THOMAS, who confessed on the stand that he intended to use force, and had so stated to others. He also swore that he was himself Secretary and acknowledged as such, although his co-conspirator, Mr. JOHNSON, denies the removal of Mr. STANTON, and, by his counsel, insists that he still remains the Secretary. This, too, in the face of the President's official order removing him under the law itself. No evidence which was offered by the Managers in chief went further than this to establish the validity of the Impeachment.

It is not to be wondered at that the Senate should be disposed to indulge Mr. JOHNSON in the widest possible latitude in offering such testimony. The plainest principles of the law of evidence have compelled them to exclude the testimony of General SHERMAN as to what the accused may have said to him concerning his intentions. If an accused party should be suffered to establish his own innocence in advance, by his own declarations artfully contrived with an express view to their use in his own behalf upon a future trial, the rules of evidence would become but a mere mockery. But whatever witnesses may be legitimately offered by Mr. JOHNSON'S counsel will have the widest liberty of testimony, and will be found, under the test of cross-examination, to be, as THOMAS has proven, efficiently supporting the prosecution.

We are justified, therefore, in our remark that the case, for the Managers, although technically closed, is still proceeding with the accumulation of proof, and that this has been cousidered in their tactics from the first. The oral and documentary testimony for the defense will all be in this week, perhaps by Friday. The Managers will not require more than two days for rebutting proof, and final arguments will begin early next week, probably by the 21st or 22d of the month. The country hopes to see the trial ended before May-Day, and the indications that way are quite encouraging.

NATURAL WEALTH OF NEW MEXICO.

Hon. CHARLES P. CLEVER, delegate in Congress from New Mexico, has just issued an interesting pamphlet of forty-seven pages on the resources of New Mexico—"her necessities for railroad communication with the Atlantic and Pacific States—her great future," which will add materially to the very limited stock of knowledge yet possessed by the world at large respecting that extraordinary territory.

It is now a little more than twenty years since our Government acquired possession of New Mexico; yet until 1867 we knew very little about it. We thought of it as a region of arid plains and barren mountains; cut off from the civilized world on all sides; inhabited by a few Mexicans of the lowest grade, and overrun by predatory savages. We thought of it as a portion of our national domain of no present and but little prospective value—a sort of Zahara stretching between the good part of our territory on this side and the good part on the other side—an impediment to national progress rather than a spur—a possession something like the rough and sterile lands of Pennsylvania, of which it is a common expression to say that "the more a man has of them the poorer he is."

Never was there a greater mistake. In climate, New Mexico is probably not surpassed by any other portion of the globe. About latitude 36 deg. the great Rocky Mountain system begins to break down into an extensive plateau, having an altitude of from four to seven thousand feet above the sea level. The atmosphere is exceedingly pure and clear. Some snow falls in the winter season, but it rarely lies more than a day or two. The summers, owing to the great altitude, are never oppressively hot. Much less rain falls than in the States east of the Mississippi; yet the entire country, mountains, valleys, and even the forests, are well covered with grass, making it one of the best pastoral regions in the world. The timber consists of pine, spruce, cedar, fir, and other kindred trees. These are found on the mountains. The mesas or foot hills are covered with the pinon (pronounced pinyon,) a valuable timber, often intermixed with cedar. On the streams the natural growth is principally made up of cottonwoods, sycamores, hackberry, willow, &c., with some walnut and oak.

The higher lands, including the mountains, afford excellent pasture. The valleys of the rivers and lesser streams can all be successfully cultivated, but mainly by the help of irrigation. Irrigation is effected by leading the water of a stream on a level along the higher part of the valleys or bottom lands, very much as it is carried in a race with us to a mill wheel, and is let off at proper intervals, to be led by plough-furrows over the adjacent fields. These ditches, or little canals, are called acequias in the vernacular of the country. Sometimes a farmer will have one for his own exclusive use; at other times the whole people of a district will unite and construct a "sakey," as they call it, several miles in length, and appoint a water master to deal the water out fairly to the several stockholders. "It is true (says Mr. CLEVER) it costs some labor to make these ditches, but then the farmer is sure of a crop; and the running over his land of water highly charged with detritus, made up of decayed vegetation and rich mould from the mountains above, is a source of fertility. In this way the land never wears out. Irrigation thus becomes a fertilizer." He continues: "The agricultural interests of New Mexico have heretofore been confined to the raising of wheat, corn, beans, oats and barley. In some localities in the North potatoes grow well, but along the valleys they cannot be successfully cultivated."

Agriculture among the New Mexicans is still prosecuted in the most primitive fashion. The plough is a little better than a crooked stick, with which they can only scratch the surface of the soil, yet their crops average more per acre than ours; and having the needful water perfectly at command, their crops are sure. They suffer neither from wet weather nor drought In some valleys irrigation can be dispensed with; and it is believed that when deep ploughing shall be instituted, the necessity for artificial watering will be greatly abated.

In a country so full of mountain peaks and ranges, valleys and streams are very numerous, and many of the "bottoms" are quite extensive. That of the Rio Grande is from two to ten miles in width for a distance of more than a hundred miles within the boundries of New Mexico. That of the Pecos is little if any less. Both are among the best vine growing regions in the world. Mr. Clever remarks: "The variety of the grape which is most cultivated in New Mexico cannot be surpassed for flavor by any grape in the world. The wine made from it surpasses the best Burgundy. It requires but little labor to cultivate the vine, as no trellises are used." The same is true of the vines of Southern California. In fact the two countries, in soil and climate, are very similar. Grape culture and the manufacture of wine of the finest quality will soon become a business of enormous magnitude in New Mexico, Arizona and California, a continuous region stretching at least a thousand miles along the line of the Union Pacific Railway, Eastern Division—a distance equal to that between Philadelphia and St. Louis.

But, after all, the great wealth of that territory is in its mines of the useful and the precious metals, and in its exhaustless coal mines. Our space will not permit us to go into details; suffice it to say that the number of ledges of gold bearing quartz which may be profitably worked are some thousands in number, while new discoveries are constantly being made. The silver mines are but little less numerous, in many of which the metal is found in combination with lead. Copper ores of various kinds, and yielding about the same per centage as the iron ores of Pennsylvania, abound in lodes from two to ten feet thick in many localities; and iron ore, strongly resembling that of the Iron Mountain of Missouri, exists in masses practically inexhaustible. Very rich hematite ores are also found in great abundance. Coal of excellent quality, having a much larger per centage of fixed carbon than the bituminous coals of Western Pennsylvania, is immensely abundant for a long distance along the base of the mountains this side of the Rio Grande. The veins are four to fourteen feet in thickness. Other veins are found west of that river; and there is a report that a coal vein fifty feet in thickness has been found on the San Juan river, a tributary of the Colorado Anthracite coal, in a vein of about five feet in thickness, exists near the line of the railway, a few miles southwest of Santa Fe, but its extent has not been ascertained.

There is enough of mineral wealth in New Mexico to give profitable employment to millions of men; but there it must lie until a railroad can be constructed to it. There is not a mile of navigable water in the territory, nor within hundreds of miles of it; and to expect that such a country can ever be developed so as to yield up its boundless treasures to the use of man, while the only connection between it and the rest of the world is the slow-moving ox-train, requiring three months to make the trip from the Kansas to the Rio Grande, is simply preposterous.

OF THE distinguished Representative from the Allegheny District, a Washington letter says:

Mr. Williams, who has not opened his mouth thus far in the trial, has nevertheless been of great service in the preparation and arrangement of evidence, and in the prompt citation of authorities. His absolute silence has surprised those who know his abilities, but he has not failed to render sufficient support. Messrs. Wilson and Boutwell have done the same, and Mr. Bingham, of course, besides his occasional speeches, has had the general direction of the proceedings.

MR. JOHNSON says that, if convicted in the impeachment he will take the stump for the Democratic Presidential ticket, and it is understood that he has already invited a particular friend, to accompany him as his bottle-holder. We can only regard this as an artful attempt to "black-mail" the Democracy, who would pay him any reasonable price to keep him judiciously out of sight.

WHEN we have expressed our disapproval of Fenianism, no intelligent reader can have understood us to object to the natural sympathies which our Irish-born citizens must ever feel touching the political and material condition of their native Island. Our criticisms were applicable only to those overt manifestations of hostility, against a foreign power with which the Republic is at peace, which were in violation of our laws, of our treaty-faith and of the true and loyal allegiance which this class of our people have sworn to the Republic, when admitted to the privileges of its citizenship. We have no censure for hearts which beat still warmly with love for the native land; indeed, in that very sentiment, we can discover the truest and deepest foundation of all the higher qualifications for a good American citizen. This sentiment has its legitimate effect, morally, upon public opinion, at home and abroad, and aims to reach the correction of a national wrong through the general condemnation of an enlightened world. With this, it ends; it should violate no law here or elsewhere, nor should it disregard the paramount obligations of loyalty to our institutions and our laws, one of which forbids any hostile acts against other nations at peace with us.

We have condemned, as plainly and forcibly as we know how, the schemes of military intervention with which Fenianism has proposed to array our Irish-born citizens in unlawful hostilities against a friendly power, but we have never accused them of designing to advance the interests of Ireland by any mean or cowardly way. We shall be very far, therefore, from imputing the assassination of D'ARCY M'GEE, at Ottawa, to a Fenian plot for the taking off of an opponent by midnight murder. We are quite sure that no such crime has been contemplated, or could ever be sanctioned, by the Brotherhood, here or in Canada. The murderer may have been an Irishman, but he was not necessarily a Fenian, while it is far more probable that a private grief or some domestic wrong has been avenged by this assassination. Those who best knew Mr. M'GEE while living, will understand the danger in this way to which he was frequently exposed. We decidedly prefer this explanation to the other and more general one which represents the crime as a Fenian outrage. The Brotherhood which violates our neutrality laws have not, and, we are confident, never will countenance midnight assassinations.

IT HAS come to be pretty well understood in both monetary and political circles, that the financial policy of the government is not likely to be altered or even materially disturbed for twelve months to come. Among all the schemes which have been proposed, affecting the volume of the currency, the status of the public debt and the National banking system, the only one upon which Congress has been able to agree was that suspending the contraction policy. The effect of that vote, and of the reception which all other new propositions meet at Washington, is to establish the fixed policy of the government in the continuance of the present state of affairs, without other legislative intervention, and subject only to the influence of events as they may naturally arise in the progress of the country. All parties, except the extreme Pendletonian wing of the Democratic inflationists, are agreed to let the entire subject alone, at least until the next session of Congress. For the present, there will be neither expansion nor contraction, redemption nor repudiation, nor will any measure whatever be entertained having in view an acceleration of specie-resumption. The country is doing very well as it is, and everybody is willing to forbear an injurious and meddlesome tinkering upon a state of things which is, on the whole, so generally satisfactory. Specie payments will be resumed as soon as the country is ready and able to take care of all its debts, i. e., just as soon as the great body of its creditors shall become convinced of its solvency—that they can have the cash now if they wish, or that their claims are absolutely safe to be paid, dollar for dollar, when due, in case they incline to prefer the interest now and the principal to be settled hereafter. Trade and business generally have already reached the hard-pan, values in almost all cases being estimated upon the specie-basis, and in due time the public finances will be controlled by the same standard. The arbitrary, forced value given to our paper, currency and securities, under the pressure of necessity a few years since, must, when that pressure is removed, yield, sooner or later, to the inevitable laws of political economy. In business, as in every other field of human experience, whatever is factitious and unsound is sure to give place, in due time, to a more sound and natural state of things, unless bolstered up by the arbitrary force of unsound legislation. So, we trust that Congress will keep their hands off, and permit the country to continue without interruption in the natural course, which is leading slowly but certainly back to the normal and healthy condition of affairs which existed eight years ago.

WADE AND COLFAX are likely to have a close contest for the second place upon the ticket at Chicago. A Washington letter speculates as follows:

From the delegates, so far as elected, the friends of Mr. Wade count upon Ohio, Kentucky, Maryland, Kansas, California, solid, and part of New Jersey and Michigan, making one hundred and thirty-four delegates. The friends of Mr. Colfax claim Indiana and all of New Jersey and Michigan, and part of Tennessee and Missouri, fifty-two delegates in all. Senator Wilson expects to carry the majority of the New England States. Rhode Island and parts of Vermont, Massachusetts and Maine, have as yet elected no delegates. Should Pennsylvania or New York, or both, cast their votes, after complimentary ones for Fenton and Curtin, for Wade, he will be nominated—250 being a majority of the whole—even though he should not get all the western States.

—A young man named Elias Reed only twenty-four years old, has been arrested in Milwaukee for murdering young August Tesch last November. Reed has made a full confession. Money was the object, and Tesch was unknown to him as well as to his accomplice, whose name he refuses to disclose.

A Fatal Panic in a Church.

The services on Good Friday evening at St. Mary's Cathedral in Chicago, were interrupted by a false alarm of fire. The edifice being crowded in every part, a fearful panic ensued, and with shocking results, three women being crushed to death and two others fatally injured. The Republican reports this melancholy affair as follows:

They had proceded as far as the third psalm, and were singing the lamentation commencing "Domuerunt Somnium Summum—Sleeping they." &c., when a scream was heard, and in a moment all was confusion. No words can convey the horror that in an instant filled the scene of peaceful worship. Those persons in the body of the church, feeling their utter inability to move, fearing the fall of the crowded galleries; those most remote pressing toward all the avenues of escape.

The Rev. Father Halligan was chanting the Tenebrae at the moment. His voice was drowned by the screams of the women and children. In a moment some one near the door cried "fire." This was the signal for a panic. With great presence of mind, Father Halligan cried out at the top of his voice, My Children, keep quiet—there is no fire—no cause for alarm." But his words of assurance had no effect upon the terrified people; and, to add to the fright and confusion, the cries of, "The galleries are giving away," sent a fresh thrill of terror through the audience. Many of the women swooned away in their seats, others fainted in the aisle. Some of the men maintained their composure under the trying circumstances, and did much toward restraining many in the body of the church from rashly crowding upon each other.

The people in the galleries, on becoming panic stricken, quickly poured headlong down the stairs. In descending from the south gallery, in their impetuosity to force their way rapidly to the street, the people ran, jumped, and tumbled, until they had got themselves into an entangled and struggling mass at the bottom of the stairway, opposite the door, which opened inward, where were many human beings literally piled together in horrible confusion. There lay, pressed tightly together, the living, the dead and the dying. The harrowing groans that issued forth, told of the intensity of the suffering that was being endured by many of the unfortunate people. It was a work of great difficulty to disentangle this tightly-wedged mass of humanity, so impacted that the rescuers found themselves at times literally tearing the clothing from the bodies of the victims.

Mrs. McNulty, an old lady of immense size, who had been among the first to gain the stairs, but who had in the excitement missed her footing at the top of the flight, rolled to the bottom, and when reached, was found with her head on the floor, with her feet in an upright position. Life was extinct. Crushed about her, lay others dead and dying. All the victims were removed as speedy as possible to the Convent of the Sisters of Mercy, adjoining the Church.

Here the dead and wounded were placed on the parlor floor—side by side; and everything that tended to alleviate the pain of the sufferers, was done by those kind ministering angels—the Sisters of Mercy. Medical aid was immediately sent for, but some delay was experienced in obtaining surgeons, as many of the nearest who were called upon, were absent in attendance upon their patients.

The Lake Michigan Disaster.

Of the hundred or more human lives on board the steamer Sea Bird, burned on this Lake on Friday morning, but three were saved. Of one cause of the sweeping fatality of this disaster, a Chicago journal says:

From the best evidence it would appear that no effort was made to stop the engine until circumstances prevented its further motion. The result was that, the helm having been put a-port, the boat described a circle of nearly a mile in diameter. The belief of those who ought to know is that had the progress of the steamer been stopped at the first alarm, the boats might have been gotten out, and all on board saved.

The Steamboat Inspector of this District has decided to issue an order to engineers of all steamers on the Lake, and their assistants, to stop their engines on the instant of a fire alarm, without waiting orders from their superior officers, and not to start again without an order delivered personally by the chief officer.

THE Detroit Tribune says of the recent election in Michigan:

"The new Constitution is badly defeated. It was opposed by all the enemies of Impartial Suffrage in this region, and in many sections in the interior by the Prohibitionists, who feared the success of the revised instrument without the Prohibitory clause. It also encountered a heavy adverse vote in the Republican party on the ground of its increased salaries, its exemption clauses, the railroad question, the agricultural college location, and other points involved in its various sections. These questions invited the scattering fire of thousands in the aggregate, all over the State."

THE Homeopathic Medical Society of Massachusetts has just finished a sharp wrangle over the question of admitting into its ranks a woman who has been graduated with all the honors, and is already a successfull practitioner in Boston. When the final vote was taken there was very nearly a tie—thirty-three doctors voting against and thirty-one for the admission. This was a defeat for Mrs. Mercy B. Jackson, of course; but a defeat which came so near a victory is a sign of promise. The two or three physicians who made up the adverse majority will be quite likely to change their minds before the year is out. The women doctors are doing excellent service, if in no other way than by demonstrating the capacity of woman.

Snow Storm at Toledo, Ohio.

TOLEDO, April 12.—About four inches of snow fell here during the twelve hours ending at noon to-day. The weather to-night is clear and cold; wind north-east; thermometer 35.

The Revolution in Lower California—Desperate State of Affairs—Banquet Preparing for Anson Burlingame and Chinese Embassy—Labor Exchange Organization.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

SAN FRANCISCO, April 11.—Mazatlan advices to April 2d say: About 3,000 troops were daily expected at Mazatlan from Gaudaljara to suppress the rebellion of Martinez. A bloody conflict is inevitable. Martinez is pressing every man into his service and was about attacking Rubi with his full force with the object of demoralizing him previous to his forming a junction with Corona. Gen. Martinez is suported by Gen. Toledo and Cols. Palaceo and Granadas. Col. Granadas, who raised the war cry in Culiacou, and appropriated seventy-one thousand dollars from the mint to defray expenses, publishes a circular to to his compatriots denouncing Corona in strong terms as the author of the troubles in Northwestern Mexico. Gov. Rubi is still in the Panuco Mountains, awaiting the arrival of Corona. Affairs are represented in a gloomy state. Foreigners are awaiting a change for the better. Some assert that secession will be followed by annexation to the Western States.

The new steamship contracts on the Pacific coast are looked upon as a matter of great future significance. Leading business men and merchants would greet the change with approbation, but many exhibit animosity against Americans from the belief that a large portion of the territory will be wrested from them by force of arms and intrigues for the aggrandizement of the United States.

The mining interests are ruined by the military operations, laborers being generally pressed into the army corps. Sinola cotton is almost a failure. Many fields barely pay expenses of picking. Early and late crops suffered equally. Planters are abandoning raising cotton and turning their attention to cereals. Many foreigners are locating in the country between Colican and Trente where the land is represented equal to the best on the Pacific coast, free from military troubles, and the climate salubrious.

In San Francisco arrangements are being made for a banquet to Anson Burlingame and the Chinese Embassy. The affair will be on a grand scale. Gov. Haight presides, and Eugene Casserly and other prominent citizens will participate on the occasion.

Leading merchants and business men have organized a Labor Exchange, for the purpose of obtaining information and employment. Numerous imigrants are arriving from the East and Europe.

Successful Iron Experiments—New Trial Granted for False Swearing—Arrest of Lottery Men—The Weather and Fruit.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazete.]

ST. LOUIS, April 11.—The experiments which have been made during the past few months in reducing Iron Mountain ore to pig metal, with what is known as Big Muddy coal, reached the most successful result last night at the furnace just commenced at Carondelet, six miles below this city. A final trial was made in the presence of a number of experts, capitalists and iron men, all of whom were highly pleased, and say the iron produced was first quality. The Big Muddy coal contains less sulphur than any other known, and metal can be made with it for less than twenty dollars per ton.

A new trial has been granted Timothy S. Fitch, of Chicago, who was fined five hundred dollars for alleged false swearing.

The managers of several real estate and other lottery schemes in this city were arrested to-day for a violation of the State law, and the whole lot of gift enterprizes in operation here will be broken up, if the law is strong enough to do it.

The weather cleared up finely and turned quite warm. Much damage has been done to fruit in this region, but it is believed there will still be a fair crop.

GOOD HEALTH

IS THE GREATEST OF ALL BLESSINGS,

And to preserve it is the privilege and duty of all.

DR. SARGENT'S

ANTI-DYSPEPTIC AND LIVER PILLS

Are the great sovereign, speedy and sure cure of the age, for Dyspepsia, either in its mildest or worst stages, and hundreds who have long suffered under the infliction of this most annoying and dangerous disease, have by the use of this invaluable medicine been restored to health and the enjoyment of life.

Is your Liver in a torpid condition of inaction, thereby deranging the whole system?

DR. SARGENT'S LIVER PILLS

Will speedily remove the secretions and restore it to a healthy state.

DR. SARGENT'S LIVER PILLS stand high as one of the standard medicines of the age. For the cure of all diseases arising from a disordered state of the liver, as can be attested by the certificates of large numbers of our citizens who have been benefited and cured by their use.

These Pills can be obtained, either Plain or Sugar Coated, from all Druggists in the country.

UNRIVALLED.

Nothing that has ever been known or heard of a tonic adds so much to the resistant power of the human system, under circumstances unfavorable to health, as HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS. If you would escape the intermittent fevers, fits of indigestion, bilious attacks and bowel complaints, of which cold and damp are the frequent causes, use the BITTERS as a PROTECTIVE MEDICINE. This is the wisest course; but if already an invalid, try the preparation as a RESTORATIVE. In either case full reliance may be placed upon its efficacy.

There is no mystery about the causes of its success. It is the only stomachic and alterative in which are combined the grand requisites of a mild, pure and unvitiated vegetable stimulant, with the finest selection of tonic, anti-bilious, anti-scorbutic, aperient and depurative herbs, plants, roots and barks that have ever been intermixed in a medicinal preparation.

The Bitters have this distinctive quality, which is not shared, it is believed, by any tonic, tincture or extract in the world. It does not excite the pulse, though it infuses a wonderful degree of vigor into the nervous system, and strengthens and sustains the whole physical organization.

California and Australia have emphatically endorsed it as the MINER'S MEDICINE par excellence, and in Spanish America and all the tropical climate, it is considered the only reliable antidote to epidemic fevers.

The already immense and still increasing consumption of HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS, backed by many of the most influential physicians throughout the country, should convince the most skeptical that it is worthy the confidence and approbation of all.

ANOTHER CURE OF DEAFNESS.

I lost my hearing during the last year. Part of the time I was totally deaf. In April of this year I was induced, from an advertisement, to make application to DR. KEYSER, 120 Penn street, Pittsburgh. After having tried various medicines from doctors, without any benefit, I have been under Dr. Keyser's treatment now for nearly two months, and am entirely restored to my hearing, so that I can hear a pin drop. JOHN SCANLAN,

Coal Bluffs, Washington Co., Pa.

ANOTHER CURE.

A man called to-day at Dr. Keyser's office to inform him of a great cure made by his LUNG CURE, or PULMONARY RESTORATIVE. Ilst these cures are made with the Doctor's preparations, he desires it to be distinctly understood that most of his great cures are made in accordance with the established laws that govern the science of medicine, in which he has been engaged for the past twenty-five years. Last week he was also in receipt of a letter from a clergyman in the State of Ohio, detailing another most wonderful cure.

Lightning Rods

Munson's Copper Tubular Lightning Rod,

WITH

SPIRAL FLANGES,

Has been erected on thousands of buildings in all parts of the United States, and in a test of ten years no instance of their inefficiency has occurred. This Rod has received the First Premiums at the Fairs of nearly all the States, and every place it was ever exhibited. It has been endorsed by over five hundred Professors in Colleges, and other scientific men, as the best Rod ever invented, possessing all the elements necessary to protect buildings from lightning. It is made of copper, because this is the best metallic conductor, except silver, and does not rust. Its spiral flanges and rough edges dissipate electricity and double its conducting power. Electricity uses on1/ the surface, never the heart of a metal. One flange of this Rod being open, the inside surface is available as well as the outside; altogether, its power surpasses twenty common iron rods or a solid copper rod an inch and a half thick, and has the additional advantage that it is continuous, and can never become disjointed or otherwise get out of order, but will endure as long as the building stands on which it is erected. Our points are made on the most approved method, and our Insulators are unsurpassed.

No holes are made in slate or tin roofs.

Our customers will have the benefit of our new Insulator, patented in 1867. The price is thirty cents per foot, and three dollars for each top; this includes the cost of putting the rod on buildings—there are no extra charges of any kind. Within the past few years we have erected this rod on many churches and other public edifices in Pittsburgh and vicinity, and upon thousands of dwellings and barns. For the superior character of this rod we are permitted to refer to Rev. L. C. Pershing, D. D., President Pittsburgh Female College; Philotus Dean, Esq., Professor Natural Sciences, Pittsburgh High School; Geo. Woods, LL. D., Pres't. Western University of Pennsylvania.

Thankful for the liberal orders of past years, we solicit a continuation of public patronage.

PITTSBURGH MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, SATURDAY, April 11, 1868.

The general markets have been moderately active during the past week, and some articles are higher. Provisions have been considerably excited, and a material advance has been established all round, while Grain and Flour are more active, with an upward tendency. Quite a number of other articles of minor importance, in consequence of scarcity, have advanced materially, and, upon the whole, there is a much firmer feeling, in regard to values, though the demand remains about the same, being restricted mainly to supplying immediate wants.

APPLES—Quiet but steady and unchanged; regular sales in store at $3 to $6 per bbl, as to quality.

POTATOES—Firm, and in demand with limited supply; we continue to quote Peach Blows at $3,50 to $3,75, and Buckeyes at $4,00 to $4,50. Jersey Sweets, $8.

SEEDS—Cloverseed is quiet and unchanged; $7 to $7,50; Timothy at $2,75, and Flaxseed is scarce and in demand at $2,50 to $2,55.

GRAIN—No movement is Wheat—none in market; and the same is true of Barley. Oats firm and prices are well maintained; sales at 75 to 77c on wharf and track, and 80 to 82c in store. There is a good demand for Corn, and prime Ear sells readily on wharf and track at $1. Rye is still quoted at $1,75 to $1,80, though we heard of a sale to-day at $1,85.

HAY—Baled Hay is being sold without much difficulty on wharf at $22 to $25, as to quality.

MILL FEED—One firm report sales in lots of 150 tons of Bran, to arrive by steamer, at $1,30.

BUTTER—Is firmer, in consequence of diminished receipts; we now quote prime to choice Roll at 45 to 50c.

EGGS—A little weak, in consequence of increased arrivals, but prices are without material change, 21 to 22c.

PROVISIONS—Bacon continues firm, with a steady jobbing demand but unchanged. Sales at 13½ to 13¾c for Shoulders; 15¾c for Ribbed, and 17¼c for Clear Sides; 18¼ to 18½c for Plain Sugar Cured Hams, and 19¼c for Canvassed do. Lard, 17½c, in tierces, and 18c, in kegs. Mess Pork, $27,50.

BEANS—$4,50 to $5 per bush.
HOMINY—$6,25 to $6,50 per bbl.
ONIONS—$4,50 per bush.

FLOUR—Is steady and the demand is rather better, but prices are unchanged; $10,50 to $10,75 for good Spring Wheat; $11 to $11,25 for choice do; $11,75 to $12,50 for Winter Wheat, and $15 to $16 for St. Louis fancy brands. Rye Flour, $9 to $9,50.

PITTSBURGH PETROLEUM MARKET.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE, SATURDAY, April 11, 1868.

CRUDE—The Crude market has been remarkably quiet during the past week, the sales being comparatively light, and, compared with the early part of last week, there is an "offish" feeling, though in reality, prices are without material change. To-day, there was not a single sale effected, at least, we had none reported, and, so far as we could learn, there were but very few offers to either buy or sell; we are cognizant of an offer to sell at 8½c to be delivered on first water, though holders generally are asking 8¾c, and it is said that there are plenty of buyers at 8½c. Spot oil, of which there is none in market, may be quoted at 8½ to 8¾c, and all the year, buyer's option, at 12c. As the river is too low to run bulk oil, the receipts have fallen off materially, and the arrivals by rail have also been very light; at this writing the indications are favorable for an early bulk rise, and it looks now as though business would be dull until after there is a freshet.

REFINED—There was but a single sale reported to-day, 500 bbls for December, at 28½c. Spot oil is quoted at 25c; all the month, buyer's option, at 25½c to 25¼c; May 25½ to 25¾c; June 26 to 26¼c; and July 26½ to 27c. Offers to buy last four months at 28½—"refusals" asked at 28¾c; and offers to sell last five months at 29c. The last half of October sold on Thursday at 29c, and we presume that buyers for that delivery could still be found at that figure. All the year, buyer's option, may be quoted nominally, in the absence of sales, at 31 to 32c. As in the case of crude, the market has been remarkably quiet during the past week, the sales, comparatively speaking, being insignificant, and while there has been a steady demand throughout the entire week, refiners refused to sell at the prices offered; and to this, more than anything else, may be attributed the very small sales, and dullness with which the market has been characterized.

ARRIVALS—The arrivals of crude by river and rail during the week foot up 12,300 bbls, against 11,599 bbls last week, and over one hundred thousand barrels during the corresponding week last year. The arrivals from the first of January to date foot up 213,372 barrels.

Financial Matters in New York.

Gold Closed at 138¼@138⅜.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

NEW YORK, April 11, 1868.

MONEY AND GOLD.

Money was quite active early in the day, and generally sharp at 7 per cent., in fact coin interest was paid in a few instances. Toward the close of bank hours the offerings were more liberal, especially to Government dealers, and the market was easier and more accessible at the legal rate. Discounts are dull and nominal at 107@109. Sterling is firm and quiet at 109¼@109⅝, for prime bills. Gold is lower, opening at 138½, and closing at 138⅛@138⅜. The Assistant Treasurer sold $150,000 yesterday and $300,000 to-day.

BANK STATEMENT.

The bank statement is quite favorable, considering the heavy drain on bonds by the Treasury Department for the sales of gold. Loans, $252,936,725, decrease, $1,351,166; Specie, $16,343,040, decrease, $754,149; Circulation, $34,194,272, decrease, $132,836; Deposits, $179,851,880, decrease, $1,104,996; Legal Tenders, $51,982,609; increase, $272,,993.

GOVERNMENTS.

Governments were less active during the morning and lower, but there was more doing in the afternoon, with the decline partially recovered, the market closing very strong. Henry Clews & Co. furnish the annexed 4:30 prices: Coupons, '81, 111¾@111⅝; do. '62, 111¼@111⅜; do. '64, 109¾; do '65, 109¾@109⅞; do. new, 107⅛@107⅜; do. '67, 107⅛@107⅜. Ten-Forties, 101¾@102. Seven-Thirties, 106¾@107⅛.

RAILWAYS—STOCKS.

The Railroad market opened unsettled and lower. The recent break in Atlantic Mail and the continued downward movement in Pacific Mail still form the great topic of conversation, and the public have been effectually frightened by the sharp decline and are disposed to give these stocks a wide berth. Pacific Mail sold from 88¼ to 86 and Atlantic from 37½ to 35. The market was very heavy on New York roads; Hudson broke suddenly from 135 to 125, without apparent cause, but afterwards recovered to 129 bid; Erie declined to 69¾ and New York Central fell to 117¼. Western shares sympathised only to a limited extent with the break in the New York roads, and all were better at the close, especially Wabash, Fort Wayne and Illinois Central.

Following are 5:30 prices: Canton, 46@49; Cumberland 31½@33; Wells Express 31@31¼; American 60@63; Adams 66¼@66¾; United States 64@64¼; Merchants 32¾@32⅞; Quicksilver 24@24½; Mariposa 6; Pacific Mail 88¾@88⅞; Atlantic 33½@35; Western Union 36¼@36¾; New York Central 117⅜@118; Erie 69¾@69¼; do preferred 72½@74; Hudson 129⅞@131; Reading 88¾@88⅞; Ohio and Mississippi 30¾@31; Wabash 49¼@49½; St. Paul 60¼@60½; do preferred 73¾@74; Michigan Central 113¼@114½; Michigan Southern 88⅝@88¾; Illinois Central 140½; Pittsburgh 88¼@88¾; Toledo 102½@103; Rhode Island 93⅞@93¾; Northwestern 62@64; do preferred 74¼@75; Fort Wayne 101@101½; Hartford and Erie 14@100; Chicago and Alton 120; St. Joseph 76½; Columbus 106; New Tennessee 65⅝; Missouri 87½.

MINING SHARES

Are dull: Gregory, 320; Walkill, 25.

EXPORTS

Of gold for the week were $81,807. There were none to-day.

THE IRISH WIFE.

BY THE LATE D'ARCY M'GEE.

I would not give my Irish wife
For all the dames of Saxon land—
I would not give my Irish wife
For the Queen of France's hand,
For to me she is dearer
Than castles strong, or lands, or life—
In death I would be near her
And rise beside my Irish wife.

Oh, what would be this home of mine—
A ruined, hermit-haunted place—
But for the light that nightly shines
Upon its walls from Kathleen's face?
What comfort in a mine of gold—
What pleasure in a royal life—
If the heart within lay dead and cold,
If I could not wed my Irish wife?

I knew the law forbade the banns—
I knew my King abhorr'd her race;
Who never bent before their clans,
Must bow before their ladies' grace.
Take all my forfeited domain—
I cannot wage with kinsmen strife—
Take knightly gear and noble name,
And I will keep my Irish wife.

My Irish wife has clear blue eyes,
My heaven by day, my stars by night;
And twin-like truth and fondness lie
Within her swelling bosom white;
My Irish wife has golden hair—
Apollo's harp had once such strings—
Apollo's self might pause to hear
Her bird-like carol when she sings.

FIVE YEARS ON GUARD.

During the French empire every regiment had its dog, whose intelligence, thanks to the soldiers' care, was improved by education and discipline. The grand army's dogs were picked up almost everywhere, except in England. They had been recruited in Poland, in Prussia, in Holland, in Saxony, and in Flanders. They were mongrel mastiffs, hounds, Danish dogs and spaniels. But no matter whence they came, they soon turned out French. Foreign dogs were naturalized without knowing it.

Rugen is an island on the Black Sea, opposite to Stralsund, on the coast of Pomerania. Fortified both by nature and by art, its situation is exceedingly strong. In time of peace, in consequence of its fertile soil, its salubrious air, and its mild climate, it is a delightful retreat. In time of war it is an important post, a natural citadel, a formidable fortress, whose possession has been purchased at the expense of many a bloody fight. During the campaign of 1807 this island was comprised in their sphere of operations by the corps commanded by Marshal Davoust, and was occupied by an infantry regiment of the line, and by several companies of sappers and miners. The regiment, of course, had a dog---a black-and-white poodle---named Capucin, not because he was born in a Capucin convent, in Italy (which would have been quite a sufficient reason), but in allusion to the copper or iron rings by which a gun-barrel is fastened to its stock. The dog's sharp bark might, perhaps, have been thought to resemble the snappy report of a musket.

In consequence of a change in the plan of operations ordered by Napoleon the First, the island had to be suddenly evacuated, to carry out a movement in retreat, abandoning the whole line of the Pomeranian coast. Every post, every man was withdrawn, but in such a hasty way that they forgot an advanced sentinel, perched on the top of a hillock, which commanded the entrance of Rugen. This sentinel was a young soldier, named Firmin Bonard, who had scarcely been three months in the service. At present a soldier who has served three years is considered quite a veteran. At that time troopers who could reckon three, five, seven and nine years of service, were still called conscripts. Now, Bonard, the soldier, and Capucin, the dog, happened to be particular friends, bound by the strongest ties of mutual attachment.

The corporal of the post had planted Firmin as sentinel on the hillock exactly at midnight. The latter thereof calculated on being relieved at two in the morning, and also that from two till five in the morning he would have three good hours to doze and slumber in the corps of guard. So Firmin Bonard beguiled the time by anticipating this supreme indulgence, also by thoughts of his village steeple, of his aged cure's ancient housekeeper, of the haystack where he used to play at hide and seek, and sundry other recollections. In this way the minutes slipped slowly by, and the two hours' guard were drawing to a close.

All at once he heard a slight noise. He listened. "It is the corporal coming to relieve the guard," he thought, and prepared to utter the formal "qui vive." But the sound, which resembled that of human footsteps, was soon followed by complete silence. "I couldn't be mistaken!" he said to himself. "Besides, my time must now be up." He listened again, still more attentively. Almost immediately he heard the barking of a dog, who came running forward in his direction. On recognizing Capucin's voice the sentinel looked around him anxiously. Perceiving nothing which threatened an attack, he wondered what could be the meaning of this nocturnal visit. Before he had time to consider the matter the animal had climbed the hill and was jumping up his legs.

"It's you, Capucin. Very good. You got tired of waiting there; and I am tired of standing here. The air is keen, and I am terribly sleepy. You should have brought the corporal with you. His watch must have stopped. He ought to sell it for old iron, and buy a new one."

Capucin's answer was a frenzied bark and a series of mad leaps around his friend.

"I understand," said Firmin, smiling. "You're asking me to dance to warm myself. It's a pity you are not provided with the password and a musket."

Capucin commenced to bark, running right and left like a creature possessed. Finding all these manœvres useless, he ran up to the soldier, pulled him by the coat, and tried hard to pull him away, renewing his efforts with so much violence that he tore the soldier's uniform. Firmin, considering this proof of affection more troublesome than pleasant, lost his temper and gave poor Capucin a kick. The dog, howling at finding himself so cruelly maltreated and misunderstood, retreated to a few paces distant; but soon returned, heedless of his friend's unkind treatment. All he did now was to look forgiveness and lick the soldier's hand.

"Be quiet, will you? and take yourself off," said Firmin, harshly, as he threatened him with the butt of his gun, to drive him away. Capucin, finding he could do no good, unwillingly made up his mind to depart. He arrived just in time to go on board with the last detatchment of his corps.

At four o'clock Firmin began to lose patience. Discipline forbade his quitting the post, but hunger, which drives the wolf out of the wood, compelled him to forget the code militaire. He left his station and went to the guard-house, muttering to himself, "If anybody deserves to be shot for this it is not I, but the corporal, who doesn't know his business and keeps a sentinel on guard six hours at a time."

In the guard-house not a creature. The only supposition he could form was that the regiment had gone to occupy another part of the island. He shouldered his gun and walked off across the country in search of his regiment. On the way he fell in with a farmer plowing a field. "Can you tell me," he asked him, "in what direction the French have marched?"

"They have gone away," was the startling reply. "They embarked at two o'clock this morning, stepping lightly and without uttering a word, in consequence of an order received from the Emperor."

"Gone away, leaving me behind! I shall be reported as a deserter! Confound that corporal; he has been my ruin. I understand what poor Capucin meant. It is not death I fear, so much as the disgrace."

"Don't take on in that way," said the farmer, in a consolatory tone of voice. "Shrieking never set a broken bone. Stay here and make the best of a bad business. If the French come back again I can prove that it was no fault of yours."

"My good man, you do not know the severity of our rules."

"They will not punish you for a crime you have not committed. Meanwhile, you cannot live on air. You probably were brought up in the country, and are accustomed to do country work?"

"Certainly. I can plow, for instance."

"The very thing for me. I can offer you good board and lodging, with a small weekly payment into the bargain. It will be the best thing you can do, under the circumstances."

The soldier heaved a heavy sigh, and slowly gazed all around the horizon, to see whether any of the ships were still visible. Beholding nothing, he said at last, "I thankfully accept your offer."

"Good," said the farmer, Peter Baxen. "Come and breakfast at once. We will go on with the plowing afterwards."

At Baxen's farm the soldier had plenty of opportunities of proving his capacity. He found such favor in the farmer's eyes—and in other people's too—that Baxen determined to try and keep him for good and all.

"My worthy fellow," he said, one day, "I look upon you almost as a son,"

"If my poor old father," Firmin answered, "were not anxiously awaiting my return to France, I would willingly remain in Rugen."

"You can bring him back with you the next time you go to France. But what I want to say to you now concerns my daughter."

Firmin colored up to the eyes.

"Unless I am much mistaken, you and she are very good friends."

Firmin uttered a few unintelligible words.

"The neighbors even say you are in love with her."

"I assure you I never uttered a word which could lead her to suppose that"

"I know it, and for that very reason I took upon myself to tell her that, if you had no objection, she might have you for a husband."

"And she said—"

"Not a word, but she threw her arms around my neck and kissed me for a quarter of an hour!"

A fortnight afterwards Firmin Bonard was married to the fair-haired Clarrissa, Peter Baxen's only daughter.

Four years then elapsed pretty equally divided between love and labor. His thoughts occasionally reverted to France, but he had almost forgotten his compulsory desertion. The past soon fades from our memory when the present is satisfactory, and the future promising.

One morning the look-out man in the town of Rugen signaled a fleet of ships in the offing. They were men-of-war carrying the French flag.

"The French are coming!" people shouted to each other. "They are going to land!"

Firmin Bonard heard it. "The French are coming!" rang in his ears like the boom of an alarm-gun. I told him that he was a lost man. Nevertheless, a thought struck him which relieved his heart by a glimmer of hope.

He ran home, put on his uniform, seized his arms, and mounted guard on the very spot where, five years before, he had unintentionally been abandoned. Meanwhile, boats full of soldiers rowed toward the hillock. In the forepart of one of the boats was a black and white poodle. As it approached the beach the creature barked with joy. In spite of his anxiety, Firmin's eyes filled with tears as he recognized his old friend Capucin. The dog, unable to master his impatience, jumped into the sea and swam ashore.

As soon as the boat had come within earshot Firmin "made ready," and shouted at the top of his voice, "Qui vive!"

"Qui vive, yourself!" said the occupant of the first boat, which was filled with officers, composing Marshal Davoust's staff. "Who are you, and what are you doing here?"

"I am a sentinel, keeping guard."

"A pretty sentinel! How long have you been on guard?"

"Five years."

"It is time to come down then," shouted the officers, laughing.

When Firmin descended from his hill Capucin ran to meet him half way, barking with joy and jumping into his arms.

"Poor Capucin, have it all your own way this time. Do what you like. Dirty me, tear my clothes; I shan't send you away. I ought to have made a better return for your attempt to serve me."

Followed by the faithful dog, Firmin joined his former comrades. He gave a plain account of what had happened. By a lucky chance, the corporal who had forgotten him, and who had been promoted, belonged to Marshal Davoust's staff. He received his old comrade with open arms. Firmin, in return, invited his countrymen to the farm, where he entertained them with liberal hospitality. The adventure reached Marshal Davoust's ears. He laughed at Firmin's strategy, and presented him with a discharge drawn up in due form. "I should not like the brave fellow," he said, "to appear before a courtmartial after having kept guard so long."

Firmin continued a farmer. He had a large family, who at present fill the largest and most important offices in the island. They are commonly known as the Sentinel's Family. When the French army left Rugen, Capucin remained. Like his master, he forgot his military mates, and devoted himself exclusively to farming.

CITY AND SUBURBAN.

Sad Occurrence—A Boy Killed by the Accidental Discharge of a Pistol.

A most sad and distressing accident occurred on Saturday evening, at the Red Bank Hotel, in Duquesne borough, which resulted in the death of William Silberisen, a boy about nineteen years of age, a son of Philip William Silberisen, proprietor of the house where the accident occurred.

It appears that Julius Kramer, a young man of about eighteen years of age, who boarded at the Red Bank Hotel, had been absent for some days, returned Saturday evening, and while sitting on a table in the kitchen, drew a Remington pistol from his pocket, which he said he had borrowed before going away, and which he said he must return. The pistol was loaded, and a daughter of the proprietor requested him to put it up, lest some accident might occur. He was about to replace the pistol in his pocket, when by some unaccountable means it was discharged, and the ball entered the breast of Silberisen, immediately over the heart. The boy turned around, walked to the bar-room, and told his father that he was shot, immediately after which he fell on the floor. He was removed to a bed and medical aid summoned, but he died in about ten minutes after receiving the wound.

Kramer, who was one of the unfortunate boy's most intimate friends, was terribly affected by the occurrence, and at once gave himself up to the authorities of Allegheny city to await an investigation of the affair. Coroner Clawson was notified and on Sunday held an inquest on the body, when the following testimony was elicited:

Mary Silberison, sworn—I was sitting beside Kramer on the table in the kitchen; he showed me a pistol which he said he had borrowed to take down the river with him. I told him to put it away, and just as he was doing so it went off. The boy walked from the kitchen to the bar and said, "Oh, Pa, Julius has shot me!"

J. Seibert, sworn—Julius Kramer and I came to the house together. After we came into the house we were all fooling together; while I was standing at the door I heard the report of the pistol, and immediately after the boy came out and told his father that Julius had shot him.

Several other witnesses were called and examined. The testimony was mainly corroborative of what we have given, and all tending to show that the shooting was purely accidental.

The jury rendered the following verdict: "William Silberison came to his death in Duquesne borough, in the county of Allegheny, on the 11th day of April, 1868, by the accidental discharge of a pistol in the hands of Julius Kramer, and the jury further find that no blame can be attached to the said Julius Kramer."

Attempted Suicide.

James Patton, a tobacco dealer at Schenly's station, on the Allegheny Valley Railroad, attempted to commit suicide on Saturday evening by taking arsenic. Patton, it appears, is addicted to the use of strong drink, and has for some days past been laboring under a slight attack of mania potu. He came to the city on Thursday, since when he has been stopping with his sister, Mrs. Miller, who resides on High street. About seven o'clock on Saturday morning he called in Clark's drug store, on Fifth street, and purchased an ounce of arsenic. Patton then went to Megraw's tobacco store, on St. Clair street, where he is in the habit of purchasing goods, and remained until after nine o'clock. He said he expected to meet a man there who was to pay him some money.

Shortly after nine o'clock Patton got a glass of water and went with it to one of the sleeping-rooms of Mr. Megraw's residence, connected with the store. Mrs. Megraw having occasion to visit the room soon afterwards, found Patton stretched upon the bed, and discovered a paper labeled "poison," which had contained the arsenic, upon the floor. Dr. McDonald was called in, but the unfortunate man refused to take any remedies. He finally got up and walked to the residence of his sister. Dr. Kimball was summoned and administered such antidotes as the patient would consent to take. Hopes of his recovery are entertained, in consequence of the overdose of the drug taken. If it should not prove fatal, as it possibly may, he will probably suffer from the effects of folly as long as he lives. He has a wife and four children, and is about forty-five years of age.

The Elevator Again—Another Robbery in that Locality.

So many robberies have occurred in the vicinity of the Grain Elevator that it should either be declared a nuisance and torn down, or such disposition of the police force made as to prevent these occurrences hereafter. Why the night-prowlers, thieves, robbers, head-breakers, and would-be murderers select that locality in preference to all others, as the scene of their iniquities, we are unable to see, and why by a judicious disposal of the police one officer cannot be kept in that vicinity, we are also unable to discover. The location is one of the most public in the city, not excepting Fifth street, which may perhaps account for the number of depredations occurring there, and for this reason it should be the most carefully guarded by the police. Friday night or Saturday morning Henry Little, who it appears had been indulging freely in liquor, was knocked down near the Elevator and robbed of his pocket book and all the money it contained, amounting to thirteen dollars. He had on the evening previous been in company with Frank Johnson and Frank Trainer, with whom he took several drinks, and they are the persons he alleges who took his money. He made information before the Mayor charging them with highway robbery. They were arrested and after a hearing were committed to jail in default of the required bail for their appearance at Court. Out of the many robberies committed in the vicinity of the Elevator, this is the only one, we believe, in which the perpetrators have been apprehended.

Horse Drowned.

A valuable horse belonging to Messrs. M'Clintock & Co. was drowned in the Allegheny river, at the foot of Irwin street, Saturday evening. Joseph Kelly, who is employed by Messrs. M'Clintock & Co. as driver, drove the horse, which was attached to a light delivery wagon, to the river to water and wash him, when it appears he drove too far into the water, and the horse fell over the wharf log, dragging the wagon after him. He became entangled in the harness, and was drowned before he could be extricated. Kelly the driver was thrown into the water, but managed to swim to the shore.

Forcible Entry and Detainer.

Jane Richardson made information before Alderman McMasters, on Saturday, charging William Purchan with forcible entry and detainer. Mrs. R. occupied a house in the Third ward, which, it appears, Purchan claimed to have rented, and as she alleges, went to the premises during her absence, Friday evening, broke the door open and took possession, which he still retains. A warrant was issued for his arrest.

Slight Fire.—The alarm from box 23, at seven o'clock on Saturday morning, was occasioned by the discovery of fire on the roof of a residence on Penn, near Hand street, which caught from a spark from the chimney. The damage was trifling.

THE COURTS.

United States District Court—Judge McCandless.

In the bankruptcy branch, Saturday morning, final discharge was granted and certificates awarded to Chauncy J. Moore, of Elk county, Daniel Britton, of Cameron county, and Montgomery Cox, of Columbia county.

Petitions for final discharge were filed by Wm. Biesecker, of Luzerne county; Franklin M. Burger, Huntingdon county; Israel Burkley, Cambria county; James Fervoed, Mifflin county; Jno. Woods, Blair county; A. W. Green, Cambria county; Joseph Williams, Blair county; Johnston Moore, Blair county.

Simeon Rumbaugh, of Armstrong county, filed a petition for adjudication in bankruptcy.

On motion of A. B. McCalmont, Esq., attorney for bankrupt, the Court issued an order directing the Register to return the papers in his possession in the case of Ellis R. Morris, a bankrupt, against whom creditors have filed specifications opposing his final discharge, in order that the specifications may be presented to the Court with a view of submitting any questions of fact to a jury at the next term of Court, as provided in the Thirty-first section of the act.

District Court—Judges Hampton and Williams.

The preliminary injunction in the case of the Schaffer Coal Company vs. Wm. B. Hays was refused.

On motion of Hon. S. A. Purviance, Archibald Blakely, Esq., was admitted to practice.

Judgment was entered against defendant in the case of the Pittsburgh Elevator Company vs. A. Shaffer, in default of appearance of defendant. Rule granted to fix and assess damages.

Quarter Sessions—Judges Stowe and Mellon.

In this Court on Saturday the following business was transacted:

Abel Cohen, convicted of removing and secreting goods, with intent to defraud his creditors, was sentenced to pay a fine of $1,000 and costs, and to undergo an imprisonment of one month in the county jail. Sentence on another indictment, for like offense, was suspended.

Matthew Munn, for committing an assault and battery upon Patrick Rice, was sentenced to pay a fine of thirty dollars and costs.

Patrick Leonard, convicted of the larceny of a box of carpenter's tools, was sentenced to pay a fine of ten dollars and to undergo two months imprisonment in jail. The defendant was treated with leniency upon promising to conduct himself properly in the future.

Thomas Sullivan, convicted of assault and battery, was sentenced to pay a fine of twenty-five dollars and costs.

Isaac Wolf, convicted of fraudulently collecting money for engine companies during the Monumental Fair, and sentenced to six months imprisonment, came into Court and asked to be discharged. It appeared that his term had not yet expired, and he was remanded.

Daniel Matthews, who has been in jail since January last awaiting trial on a charge of larceny, was brought into Court and stated that the prosecutor had failed to appear against him and asked to be discharged. The Court remarked that the information was before the Grand Jury, and that the defendant must await the action of that body. A short time afterwards the bill was returned "ignoramus," and Matthews was discharged by proclamation.

Patrick Bannon, charged with obtaining money under false pretences, was also discharged, the Grand Jury having ignored the bill.

The Wilkins township contested election case was called up, and a motion made by John H. Hampton, Esq., to quash the proceedings. The motion was placed on the argument list.

The Grand Jury having completed their labors were discharged from further attendance, with the thanks of the Court. They made no presentment.

Common Pleas—Judge Stowe.

The case of the Paul Jacobs vs. the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, which had been on trial for several days, was concluded Saturday morning. The jury were instructed to seal their verdict.

A Nice Young Man.

Friday evening a young man, who resides with his father on Washington street, went to a house on Webster street occupied by Blanche Howard, which, by the way, is not the most respectable house in the city, and during the evening became involved in a quarrel with Blanche. The young gentleman must have been slightly intoxicated, as it appears he so far forgot his gallantry as to strike the fair but frail Blanche with his fist. Blanche repaired to the Mayor's office Saturday morning and made information charging the young man with assault and battery. Hearing of the fact, and wishing to keep the matter from his paternal ancestor, who, it appears, is in blissful ignorance of his son's shortcomings, came to the Mayor's office and entered bail for a hearing, expecting in the meantime to settle the affair, so as to avoid further publicity.

School House Dedication.

A large and respectable audience assembled, on Friday evening, at the new school house on Canal street, 4th ward, Allegheny City, to join in its dedication. Quite a number of prominent gentlemen swelled the audience, and the hall, which is a spacious one, was crowded to its utmost capacity. The meeting was called to order by electing Rev. J. T. Prestley, D. D., chairman. The exercises opened with prayer offered by Rev. (Col.) J. B. Clark, President of the Board of Control of our sister city. The chairman made some introductory remarks and introduced Rev. A. M. Milligan, Pastor of the Reformed Presbyterian Church, O. S., of Pittsburgh. The reverend gentleman contrasted different systems of education, showing that the power of a nation was owing to the education of its citizens. Education, however, should not merely be physical and intellectual, but likewise moral and religious. Physical and intellectual education would not of itself lead to the grand aim of life, but in order that men and women be true and reliable they must receive heart culture to give a mould to the intellectual training, turning it in the right direction.

Rev. W. J. Reed, of the First U. P. Church of Pittsburgh, was introduced. He congratulated the directors on the fine house they had erected, and very humorously contrasted it with the old one. He then addressed the pupils of the school, quite a number of whom were present, advising them first, to "go ahead," next to be steadfast, and last to "turn around."

Col. J. B. Clark then addressed the meeting. He spoke of the propriety of having good school houses, and everything necessary for the convenience and comfort of the teachers and pupils. He was a wise man who emptied his purse into his mind. Parents should take a lively interest in schools, visit them and see that the children are well provided for in every respect. The speaker also thought that young children should not be retained in school five or six hours per day, but dismissed as soon as their lessons were over.

Rev. Mr. Allison, of the Presbyterian Banner, was then introduced and made some remarks.

Mr. Jas. M. Cooper next addressed the meeting. He said it made him happy to be allowed to participate in the dedication of this fine temple of learning. The public schools were the nation's safe-guard. No money was so well expended as that providing for the liberal education of the future citizens. The public school should be supported well, good houses, necessary apparatus, and everything required should be supplied and the teachers encouraged in their work.

Mr. J. S. Slagle then spoke in a highly complimentary manner of the enterprise of the Directors who had erected the house. The rising generation would revere their names as sacred and always bless their memory.

Prof. James R. Newell was then introduced and entertained the audience by excellent readings. Subjects—"The Batchelor's Dream" and "The Razor Seller."

He then declaimed that favorite story of freedom, "William Tell." The telling effect of the gentleman's entertainment can only be realized or conceived by those who were present or know his ability as an elocutionist.

Mr. A. T. Douthett, County Superintendent, made the closing address.

The music for the evening was furnished by a class of young misses belonging to the school under the leadership of Prof. Slack and Prof. Horner. The music was very entertaining, reflecting great credit and ability of those having it in charge.

At the close the following dedication song, written for the occasion by Miss Sue B. Nichol, was sung very beautifully by the class:

Come forth, our parents and patrons dear,
Joyous the welcome that waits you here,
Gladly we greet you with words of cheer,
It was your love and tender care
That reared for us this building fair,
And furnished it with comforts rare.
Welcome, we welcome all to-night.
Welcome, we welcome all to-night.

To Wisdom, Love, Truth, bright sisters three
We consecrate our school—that ye
Our guardian spirits and guides may be.
Teach us the lesson of right to prove—
Shew us the path that leads above,
Where we shall drink at the fount of love.

'Tis learning's strong and potent arm
That shields us from oppression's harm,
And steels our hearts for life's battle storm.
It guides our feet in wisdom's way;
Its sceptre o'er our minds shall sway,
And fabrics rear that never decay.

Then will we pledge ourselves in song,
A band of brothers and sisters strong,
To fight for right and to trample wrong,
To seek in our school of learning, free,
The knowledge that shall ever be
A safeguard to our liberty.

The whole exercises of the evening were interesting and pleasing. The building is a magnificent one, the best we think in the city, and certainly reflects great credit on the enterprising directors who had it erected. May others follow the example.

Sunday School Anniversary.

The second anniversary of the North avenue M. E. Sunday School of Allegheny City was held yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Notwithstanding the inclemency of the weather, the large school room was filled at the appointed hour with the scholars and friends of the school, who seemed to take great interest in the proceedings.

After the preliminary exercises, which were of a varied and interesting character, the Secretary, Mr. Thomas Pratt, read the annual report, which gave an encouraging exhibit of the vast success and present condition of the organization. During the year it has been under the superintendency of Thomas Bakewell, Esq., one of our most efficient Sunday School workers, and judging from the report, he, as well as those interested with him in its management, have great reason to rejoice at the success which has attended their efforts. With an increase of two hundred and ten in the average attendance of scholars, sixteen new teachers added to the effective force, a library increased with new books, now numbering six hundred and fifty volumes, and renewed interest and activity in every department, they enter upon the third year with bright prospects.

At the conclusion of the report, Rev. S. F. Scovel, of the First Presbyterian Church, taking for his text "And the hand of the Lord was with him," preached a very beautiful and suggestive sermon of about twenty minutes' length to the children, after which the audience was dismissed with the usual closing exercises.

In a New Place.

Dr. J. L. M'Kee, practising physician, who has for a long while past been associated with Dr. L. Oldshue, has opened for himself an office at No. 908 Penn street, where he will devote his exclusive attention to his profession. He justly occupies a high position amongst the leading and most successful physicians of our city, having received thorough collegiate training and graduation, and having had large and abundant practice in the treatment of all diseases to which flesh is heir. We commend Dr. M'Kee in earnest terms to the confidence of our readers, as we have known him personally sufficiently long to form high estimate of his abilities as a physician and character as a gentleman and scholar.

Lecture To-night.—Rev. W. J. Reid, than whom there are few more pleasing pulpit orators in this neighborhood, has consented to deliver a lecture this evening in the First United Presbyterian church, Seventh street, for the benefit of the Sabbath School of that congregation. The subject chosen, "Augers and Gimlets," may seem to some suggestive of an intellectual bore, and so it will prove, for with the oratorical skill of Mr. Reid, he will certainly bore his way into the hearts of his audience, and from this quaint theme deliver a novel, powerful and instructive lecture. We trust there will be in attendance a large audience and can promise all who will be present one of the most charming lectures of the season.

Amusements.

New Opera House.—To-night, at this first-class and leading place of entertainment, will appear for the first time after a lapse of twenty years, Mr. Edwin Forest, the celebrated American tragedian, who has but few rivals on the stage. In September, 1833, Mr. Forest played an engagement as a star at the "old Drury" under the management of Mr. Wemyss, and "delighted large audiences" as the advertisement in the Gazette of that date proclaimed. He appeared then in the following impersonations and order: Rolla, Othello, Virginius, Tell, Damon, Metamora and King Lear. The manager then announced the young actor in his bills: "In fulfilment of the promises made the manager feels great pleasure in announcing to the public the first night of the celebrated American tragedian, Mr. E. Forest, who left this city a few years ago an untutored novice, to return the brightest ornament on the stage." Thirty-five years have almost passed away since then, and the young actor comes again into our midst with the weight of age on his shoulders, but with a professional reputation that has grown brighter with each returning year, and a fame that has spread throughout the world.

This evening will be presented the Shakesperian tragedy of Othello. In order that the engagement of Mr. Forest might not be marred by imperfect support, Mr. Canning has engaged several actors, who will appear during the remainder of the season. Seats may be secured for any night during the engagement of ten consecutive evenings, at the box-office of the Opera House.

Pittsburgh Theatre.—The attractions at the Old Theatre continue to follow each other in rapid succession, so that the public are never allowed to tire of one star until a new and more brilliant luminary is announced. Leo Hudson is announced for this week and will appear to-night in "Mazeppa," in which she will introduce her beautiful and highly trained mare "Black Bess." The inimitable Pony Smith and versatile Charley Gardiner have been added to the present brilliant company, so that the theatre-going portion of our community may expect a realization of their highest anticipations at the Theatre Comique. Mr. Aims is one of the most liberal managers Pittsburgh has ever been favored with, and it is gratifying to know that his efforts to please the public are so fully appreciated.

Franklin Hall.—The most attractive place of amusement in the city at present is Burnell's Museum, at Franklin Hall. We know of no more profitable and pleasant way of spending a leisure hour than visiting the Museum and taking a look at the works of art and wonders of nature, which are found there in vast numbers. The collection of animals, reptiles, rare birds, etc., is one of the largest and most attractive ever exhibited in this city, and the works of art are unsurpassable. In addition to the many attractions enumerated, there are hundreds of others of no less importance. The Hall is thronged with ladies and children from morning till night. Open from 8 o'clock A. M. to 10 P. M. Tickets sold at the door.

If you are on Fire

With rheumatism,
Put on fiery liniments
Or blister plasters;
Add all the fire you can.
If your house is on fire,
Throw on turpentine;
If your brain is on fire,
Bundle clothes over your head—
Keep the heat all in.
Brutes having heat or pain
Wade into the water;
Folks have more wisdom.
Brutes drink cold water
If burning up with fever;
Folks drink physic,
Wounded beasts shun heat,
Men seek more fire,
Folks swallow pills,
Brutes don't know how,
Pain is inflammation:
Inflammation is heat,
Add fire to fire
And put it out:
Never mind the smart,
Pile on the fuel,
If you have fever,
Beware of cold water,
Eat plenty of mercury,
Swallow pills fast,
No matter if you do vomit,
Keep drinking medicine.
A dose every hour.
Send for the doctor;
If he tells you to stop
Taking medicines,
Discharge him
And send for another.
Don't employ a doctor
Unless he gives you frequent doses;
Make him earn his money.
If you die make your will
In favor of
Sugar-coated pill makers,
Cheyenne pepper, liniments,
Soothing syrups,
Pectorals or plasters,
Bitters and cod-liver oil.
If any one tells you to use
Wolcott's Pain Paint,
Just call him a humbug
Before you see it.
If they say it cools fever,
Tell them they lie.
If they try to use it,
Fight against it,
Just be contrary,
If it costs you your life,
Stick to your predjudice;
Yea, suffer death
Before you yield,
And use fire to quench fire,
Burn, scald, blister to the last,
No matter if your physician urges you.
To use Pain Paint and every body else.

"Wheeler & Wilson's" The Best.

The evidence of the durability and superiority of Wheeler & Wilson's Sewing Machine, says a cotemporary, is as conclusive as a demonstration in Euclid. The first of these machines ever made has been run for fourteen years, always works well. The patentees have made over 360,000 of them, their sales each year for the last five years averaging 10,000 more than any other company, and the testimonials to their superior excellence would fill volumes. Time tries all things. It sifts and settles opinions. Many machines have arisen, and have been awarded premiums, that are now sunk out of sight. But time and trial only extend the popularity of that which, like this machine, is essentially meritorious. The simplicity of the machine, in the application of the lock stitch, is its cardinal feature, while adaptation to the widest range of work has been the constant aim. Free from all complication of parts and movements, it seldom needs repairs, and will easily last a lifetime. Especial attention is directed to the fine stock of machines on hand, at the salesroom of William Sumner & Co., No. 27 Fifth street, where all are cordially invited to call and receive instructions, whether intending to purchase or not.

The False Statement.

made to get business, we think would not have been uttered by any —— person except those who are out for the want of room in the insane asylum. Resorting to such subterfuges, innuendos, as Death from Laughing Gas, "Bogus Rubber," we will venture, could not have escaped from any mind till he is a suitable subject for Dixmont. It will be very transparent who the young man intended to inveigle, when it is shown that the Etherite has bound himself to the old Vulcanite Company to charge twenty dollars for an upper set of teeth, while Drs. Sill & Gillespie, 246 Penn street, are giving a new and a superior article at fifteen dollars per upper set. This is bewildering when he sees himself as others see him. That's what's the matter with Quincy.

"The Sweetest Thing in Life" is good health and good spirits, and if you have them not, the next best thing is what will restore bloom to the faded cheek and happiness to the drooping heart. The great and sure remedy is Plantation Bitters, which our physicians recommend to both male and female patients, as a safe, reliable, agreeable and cordial stimulant. They contain nothing to disagree with the most delicate constitution, and have won golden opinions from all who have tried them; and probably no article was ever tried by so many persons. They elevate the depressed and give strength to the weak.
